

Local traffic thinned out by first 'no gas' Sunday

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

Significant numbers of Pomona Valley residents appeared to have stayed close to home Sunday during the first day of voluntary shutdowns by the nation's gas stations.

Law enforcement agencies described traffic on local stretches of freeways and streets as thinner than usual for this time of year.

Some areas in the state reported that between 80 and 90 per cent of the service stations closed down but the percentage apparently was lower among valley operators.

Pomona Service Center 1515 N. Garey Ave., was one of those stations open Sunday and reported "excellent business." A spokesman there, however, reported that traffic did not appear to be as heavy as would be normally expected on a comparable Sunday.

A spokesman at the California Highway Patrol office in Claremont observed that traffic was lighter than normal for a Sunday and that there was a noticeable decrease in speeds.

"However they're not down to 50 miles an hour yet," he said.

Pomona Traffic Officer Bill Laszlo reported that traffic locally appeared to be "slightly lighter" than what it normally is this time of year.

The officer said it seemed to him many residents were confining their driving to short distances, such as for shopping.

It may have been a coincidence, Laszlo continued, but there were no traffic accidents reported during the day shift Sunday.

United Press International reported that across the country, many motorists filled their tanks on Friday and Saturday, and it appeared that motorists most severely affected on the first day of voluntary shutdowns by the nation's 220,000 gas stations were long-distance travelers on the nation's super-highways.

"People really seem to be scared they're going to run out of gas", said a worker at a Texaco station in Greensboro N.C., where gas station operators said they pumped as much as twice as much gas as they would on a normal Saturday. "We've had some people drive in here almost frantic from searching for a gas station" he said.

Officials in Florida said traffic was off 60 per cent Sunday. The state police in New Jersey where virtually every gas station was closed except those on the New Jersey Turnpike, said traffic was lower. Drivers on the turnpike were sold no more than $2 worth of gasoline. Toll tickets were marked so drivers couldn't get another 5 gallons down the road.

The California Highway Patrol said there was unusually light traffic with no more than a few calls from stranded drivers. "People either stocked up on gas beforehand, or they are just not driving," said one officer.

There were similar reports from highway authorities in Michigan, Illinois, Pennsylvania and New York state.

A police department spokesman on Long Island in New York said his officers had received "between six and ten" reports of gasoline being siphoned from parked cars.

A woman in Tuscaloosa, Ala., ran out of gasoline on her way home from jail to have a friend sign a bond for the release of her husband, who had been arrested Saturday.

She received an emergency supply from the fire station, had the bond signed, returned to jail and picked up her husband.

Jack W. Houston, a spokesman for the Georgia Association of Petroleum Retailers, warned that storing fuel in car trunks was dangerous. He said he would ask Congress to ban the sale of gas in anything larger than a one-gallon container.

"People who try to travel anyway, in spite of the shortage, are endangering the lives of innocent people by driving around with fuel in their trunks," he said.

President to tell data of personal finances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon this week begins furnishing Congress and the public with detailed information he says will answer a wide range of charges involving his personal finances, his taxes and other matters.

Aides said Nixon also will announce soon a plan to deed his $1.5 million San Clemente, Calif., property to the government after he and Mrs. Nixon die.

A special task force of White House weeks preparing packets of information on matters including his taxes; his friend, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, and the burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

"The President—the first president in history to do so — is going to totally show everything that he has and every expenditure he has made since he has been president," said Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

"I think you will find when this is released that everyone will be satisfied that the President has not used campaign funds and has not misused other funds and that his tax returns were prepared by qualified people and submitted to the IRS which recommended no change."

In other developments:

—Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski denied a charge by Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald Warren that Jaworski's office has leaked information to the press. He said he has "complete confidence that my office has not disclosed any investigative material concerning any individual or any case..."

—A prosecution source, declining to be identified, told UPI the President's tapes are considered "the most important single piece of evidence we have to go on" and that more such tapes have been requested.

—Vice presidential nominee Gerald R. Ford said in New York Sunday that President Nixon will not be impeached but "will be exonerated" of any wrongdoing.

Search reveals no letter bombs to oil companies

TORONTO (UPI) — Post Office officials said today that a search of all mail bound for Washington and Houston had failed to detect any letter-bombs.

The examination followed a warning received from the U.S. Postal service, acting on a tip from the FBI. A Toronto newspaper said the warning indicated letter bombs might have been mailed from Toronto by the Arab Terrorist group, the Black September, and intended for U.S. oil company officials and officials of U.S. government agencies concerned with the energy crisis.

A post office spokesman said mail addressed to the two American centers had been examined today by a fluorescent scanner and "we found nothing."

"Any suspected mail that we did have has now been cleared for delivery," post office spokesman Ed Roworth said.

Strike called but markets stay open

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

Supermarkets in the Pomona Valley remained open this morning despite a 25-1 vote by four Southland unions Sunday night to reject an industrywide contract offer and go on strike after midnight.

The Food Employers Council, reacting to the action of the unions, declared that a strike against any chain in the industry would be a strike against all and would force a lockout.

Lockout won't curtail hours

The Food Employers Council announced this afternoon that it plans to keep all of its supermarket branches open.

Robert Voigt, a spokesman for the council, said a lockout against members of the meat cutters, Teamsters, machinists and the operating engineers, who struck Lucky's, Thriftmart, and Safeway Stores this morning, would go into effect tonight.

But he said that only meant that those employees would be "locked out of their jobs" at all supermarkets, because a strike against one was a strike against all.

"We have been training administrative and temporary help for weeks," he said. "We expect them to take over for the striking employees now."

He said all negotiations between the industry and the union have come to a halt.

However, neither a massive strike, nor any lockout was evident in this area this morning. All stores reported normal operations, with the exception of one store at Montclair Plaza where some employees had stayed away and some pickets showed up.

One store manager said the unexpected reprieve in the industry-union confrontation was the result of new negotiations which were reportedly undertaken this morning between the Food Employers Council and the four unions in Los Angeles.

Word of the new negotiations apparently caused some confusion in strike plans as well as in the proposed retaliatory lockouts.

"The picture might change drastically by noon," the manager said. "All the stores may well close by the end of the day."

The contract offer by Safeway Stores, Lucky's and Thriftmart was rejected Sunday by members of the Teamsters, meat cutters, machinists and the operating engineers, which claim a total membership of nearly 28,000. The 75,000-member retail clerks' union already has pledged to honor all picket lines in front of the markets.

The walkout would affect more than 60 supermarket chains in California and their thousands of outlets throughout the state. Directly and indirectly nearly 100,000 employees are affected.

The strike by teamsters, operating engineers and machinists would extend from San Diego to San Luis Obispo counties in Southern California. The meat cutters' strike would be statewide Spokesmen for both sides in the wage dispute said there would be severe problems with distribution of food, but it will be available.

The operators said they offered workers an additional $50 a week "to keep up with the cost of living, despite the fact that the offer is in excess of (federal) Pay Board guidelines."

But union officials denied that the figure was offered, saying only a 30-cents-per-hour raise was proposed. They called it "insulting."

Among the demands left unresolved were the unions' bid for an open-end cost-of-living clause in their new three-year contract, along with voluntary overtime and operational demands.

"Those changes would be too expensive. They would give the unions complete control. We couldn't operate with that," said Robert K. Fox, president of the FEC.

Supporter of gas rationing Energy chief reportedly decided on resigning job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bypassed in a reshuffle of administration energy priorities by creation of a new agency, John A. Love and his chief deputy have decided to resign as presidential advisers, it was learned today.

William E. Simon, deputy Treasury secretary who served as the top energy spokesman in the administration for a time before Love and Charles DiBona were brought in, is to be head of the new Federal Energy Administration.

It had been reported that Love, former Colorado governor whose support for gasoline rationing apparently ran counter to views of Nixon and some of his other top advisers, would remain as a presidential assistant. But sources said both he and DiBona, his deputy, were resigning.

In other energy-related matters: —Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen said he had been assured of enough gasoline to deliver Christmas mail on time. But he predicted hundreds more airline cancellations which "will have an impact on us."

—A Louis Harris public opinion poll showed that by a margin of 78 per cent to 17 per cent (with 5 per cent having no opinion) Americans are opposed to higher gasoline taxes as a means of discouraging consumption. By a 71-21 margin, they reacted favorably to possible gasoline rationing, if necessary.

—Sen. William E. Proxmire, D-Wis., urged gasoline rationing in a Sunday broadcast described as the Democratic reply to Nixon's energy speech the previous Sunday. The President has said he is against rationing except as a last resort.

An administration source who declined to be identified said Simon and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz "concoted" Love's downfall and "eroded" his position with Nixon because they disagreed with his stand on rationing and felt it would hurt the economy and the stock market.

Nixon and Shultz have called it a "last resort," but nevertheless are mapping contingency plans for it.

Upland merchant robbed, shot

By TONY AULT
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND — A 60-year-old Upland taco stand and meat company owner was shot and seriously wounded this morning in the course of a robbery at 152 N. Campus Ave. here, police reported.

Frank Roy Richards of 984 W. Bufington St., the owner of Richards Meat Co. and four Taco Flats stands in San Bernardino and Riverside counties, was brought to the San Antonio Community Hospital about 7 a.m. by two unidentified men. He was listed in serious but stable condition with gunshot wounds of the chest and face, police said.

Capt. Howard Seay of the Upland Police Department said Richards may have been shot after he was robbed of a small amount of cash.

Seay said it appears as though the bandit, described by the victim as a male Caucasian, about 40, 5 feet 8, 165 pounds wearing a blue jacket and brown pants, waited down the street for Richards to open his office about 6:30 a.m. Richards arrived in his car and went into his office followed by bandit armed with a small caliber pistol.

Seay said several shots were fired. "He may have been shot in the back room, and shot again as he tried to use the telephone to call police."

Richards managed to crawl out of his office into the parking lot where two men going to work saw him. They took Richards to the hospital. The shooting was reported about 7:22 a.m.

Police were able to talk to Richards in the hospital where they learned the bandit's description.

Inside the old building Richards used as an office for his businesses, officers traced blood stains from the doorway to a desk where a telephone receiver dangled from a desk. Further back in the building a plaid hat lay near a patch of blood.

Ironically, police learned that on Fridays Richards usually collected the receipts from his taco stand and sometimes kept them until Monday. But, this last Friday Richards had collected the money and deposited it in a bank.

Richards' wife, Elaine, came to the scene of the shooting after police arrived and said that her husband usually picked up the receipts from the taco stands on Fridays. She told officers that he usually placed the money in plaid bag and locked it in the trunk of his car until he could get back to the office.

"It was a particularly busy weekend at the taco stands," said Mrs. Richards, "and he might have had two or three thousand dollars on him."

Seay said officers found Richards' wallet on the office floor. It was empty.

Police officers searched for clues around the building and up the street near a service station where they believe the bandit waited for Richards.

Police this morning could not locate the keys to the trunk of Richards' car where the Friday receipts were carried. "We don't know if he took the money into the office with him," said Seay.

Richards was scheduled for immediate surgery at the hospital where doctors will try to remove the bullets.

Seay said officers had contacted We Turn in Pushers, Inc., WeT.I.P., 714-983-9611, who had agreed to take information, anonymously, from anyone who may have been a witness to the robbery. Anyone seeing the robbery or any suspicious persons in the area of the shooting is urged to call either the police department or WeT.I.P. Seay said a reward for information may be paid if the information leads to the arrest and conviction of the robber.

Energy crisis affects American life, spurs European responses

Demos' reply to Nixon: 'not enough'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Sunday called for a system of gasoline rationing, saying President Nixon's proposals to ease the fuel shortage "won't do the job."

Speaking on behalf of the Democratic congressional leadership, Proxmire said in a televised answer to President Nixon's recent energy message that even if the country experiences a mild winter and if the President's plans work perfectly, only a little more than half the energy shortage will be alleviated.

"When the President said that if all of us sacrifice a little, no one would suffer, he was wrong," Proxmire said. "Some will suffer. No matter what we do, some will lose their jobs."

He appeared on CBS's "Voices of Opposition." A spokesman for the network said Proxmire was designated to speak on behalf of the Democratic leadership in the House and Senate.

If the oil industry is allowed to raise prices to force down demand, he said, those with a modest income would be unable to drive to work and "literally millions of other modest income Americans would spend a winter of shivering cold." Meanwhile, the oil companies would enjoy a multibillion dollar bonanza.

Gas can blast injures youth

VIENNA, Va. (UPI) — Arthur Hilley of Temple Hills, Md., was severely burned Sunday night when a gasoline can exploded in his face, Fairfax County authorities reported.

Hilley was listed in critical condition with third degree burns over most of his body.

The explosion occurred as the youth lit a match to see how much gasoline he had siphoned from a friend's car and ignited the fumes, witnesses told police.

The youth and some friends had

Social changes seen in wake of U.S. reactions

ATLANTA (UPI) — An Atlanta sociologist predicts far-reaching changes in the life styles of Americans due to the energy crisis, possibly the greatest changes ever seen in the country except during wartime.

Dr. Fred Crawford, director of Emory University's Center for Research in Social Change, said the shortage probably would strengthen American family life, but cause major upsetting changes in working habits, education and governmental regulation of people's lives.

"The war on poverty and the civil rights movement gave tremendous new freedoms to Americans and put decisionmaking into the hands of local people," Crawford said. "But those freedoms Americans fought so hard for are crumbling. The government, and especially the President, now has the power to control almost every aspect of American life... because of the energy crisis."

"In a sense, the government is already telling us when to go to sleep and when to get up, where to go on the weekends, and how warm or cool we should stay."

Suburban society, which finds workers commuting long distances to work, could be disrupted as workers are forced to move closer to their jobs because of a lack of fuel, he said.

Crawford predicted the energy crisis would increase unemployment and bring a sharp rise in crime.

"We are already seeing unemployment situations different from anything in the past 20 years," he said. "Hard-working, highly educated persons are out of jobs because of cutbacks in production. The situation is getting worse and worse every day."

He said the energy crisis could put crime in its "heyday" and involve larger segments of the population.

"The man out of a job who has got three kids to feed and who would otherwise never think of committing a crime, will be out on the streets looking for money anyway he can get it," Crawford said.

Nine nations coordinate fuel supply

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The European Common Market asked its nine member nations today to take emergency action to meet worldwide fuel shortages caused by Arab oil cutbacks.

Top Common Market diplomatic and finance officials met in Brussels today to discuss emergency measures and prepare for the impact of fuel cutbacks on the economies of the nine nations.

The market's executive commission has predicted the oil cuts might reduce the growth rate of industrial output in 1974 from a planned 4.5 to 2 per cent, while doubling unemployment and increasing inflation.

The foreign and economic ministers of the nine market nations met today to discuss a proposed emergency petroleum plan, which provides for creating an energy supply committee to get oil, coal, gas and nuclear industries to prepare crisis measures.

Across Europe, meanwhile, driving restrictions and temperatures as low as 14 degrees kept most people at home Sunday.

In West Germany, a Stuttgart police brass band got a special driving permit to travel to a city center square to perform. But the show was cut short because the 16 degree temperature froze the slides of the band's trombone section.

Boyle faces five-year term after court rebuffs appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court turned down today an appeal by former United Mine Workers president W.A. "Tony" Boyle who now faces the immediate prospect of beginning a five-year prison sentence for illegally giving union funds to political candidates.

Boyle, who turned 72 Saturday, also has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to murder his former union rival, Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, and two members of Yablonski's family.

The Court denied Boyle's request to hear arguments on his appeal by an 8-1 vote. In addition to the five-year penitentiary sentence, the former union leader was fined $130,000 and ordered to pay $49,250 in restitution for the money channeled to political candidates.

Destruction feared

Pioneer 10 nears Jupiter

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Pioneer 10 encountered rapidly rising levels of radiation which threaten to destroy all its equipment as it neared its closest approach to Jupiter later today.

At 7 a.m. EST the nuclear powered space craft was 620,000 miles from the giant planet.

Its speed was 39,400 miles an hour and rising fast towards its ultimate peak velocity of 23 miles a second when it will be an estimated 81,000 miles from Jupiter at 8:25 p.m. EST.

In the last 24 hours, the radiation rose 10 times. It was expected to reach its deadliest levels after 3 p.m.

This was the moment in its 620 million-mile journey that Pioneer would learn if it could survive, and man could reassess his hopes of exploring the outer planets of the solar system.

The extent of Pioneer's danger is still unknown. The radiation could knock out some or all instruments and end the spindly space craft's communications with earth.

If Pioneer survives the radiation, it means man can proceed to investigate the far outer planets. If Pioneer fails, man may be blocked from substantial exploration beyond The spacecraft messaged back 2,000 data bits per second.

Many of the data bits went to make up color pictures of Jupiter and its swirling atmospheric currents stretching the planet. One of Jupiter's clouds, a possible storm 10,000 miles wide, appeared in the pictures Sunday.

The spacecraft took Jupiter's temperature, analyzed its chemical elements, measured its mass and gathered clues to its internal structure. Little of the data related to the question of whether conditions for primitive molecular life exist on Jupiter, a subject which will be studied in the future.

Throughout Pioneer's 21-month journey, including passage through the asteroid belt, it has especially studied activities of high-energy atomic particles, a subject related to production of nuclear energy on earth.

Pioneer scheduled to pass planet and moons tonight

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Here are a few of the milestones that Pioneer 10 should pass late today in its encounter with Jupiter:

5:24 p.m. (all times EST), Pioneer crosses orbit of Io, one of 12 moons, and is 221,300 miles from Jupiter. Jupiter appears so big it overlaps the view frame of the spacecraft imaging system.

6:43 p.m., Pictures begin of The Great Red Spot, a 30,000 mile oval on the planet. Pioneer is 122,000 miles from the planet.

7:13 p.m., Infrared measures of planet's atmosphere begin.

9:24 p.m., Periastris — the point that Pioneer is closest to Jupiter. The spacecraft is 81,000 miles from the cloud tops and moving 23 miles per second.

9:25 p.m., Pioneer passes 11,470 miles from Amalthea, the closest of Jupiter's moons. Amalthea has a 100 mile diameter and is located closer to Jupiter than Pioneer.

9:34 p.m., Pioneer crosses the plain of Jupiter's equator, location of a potentially dangerous dust belt.

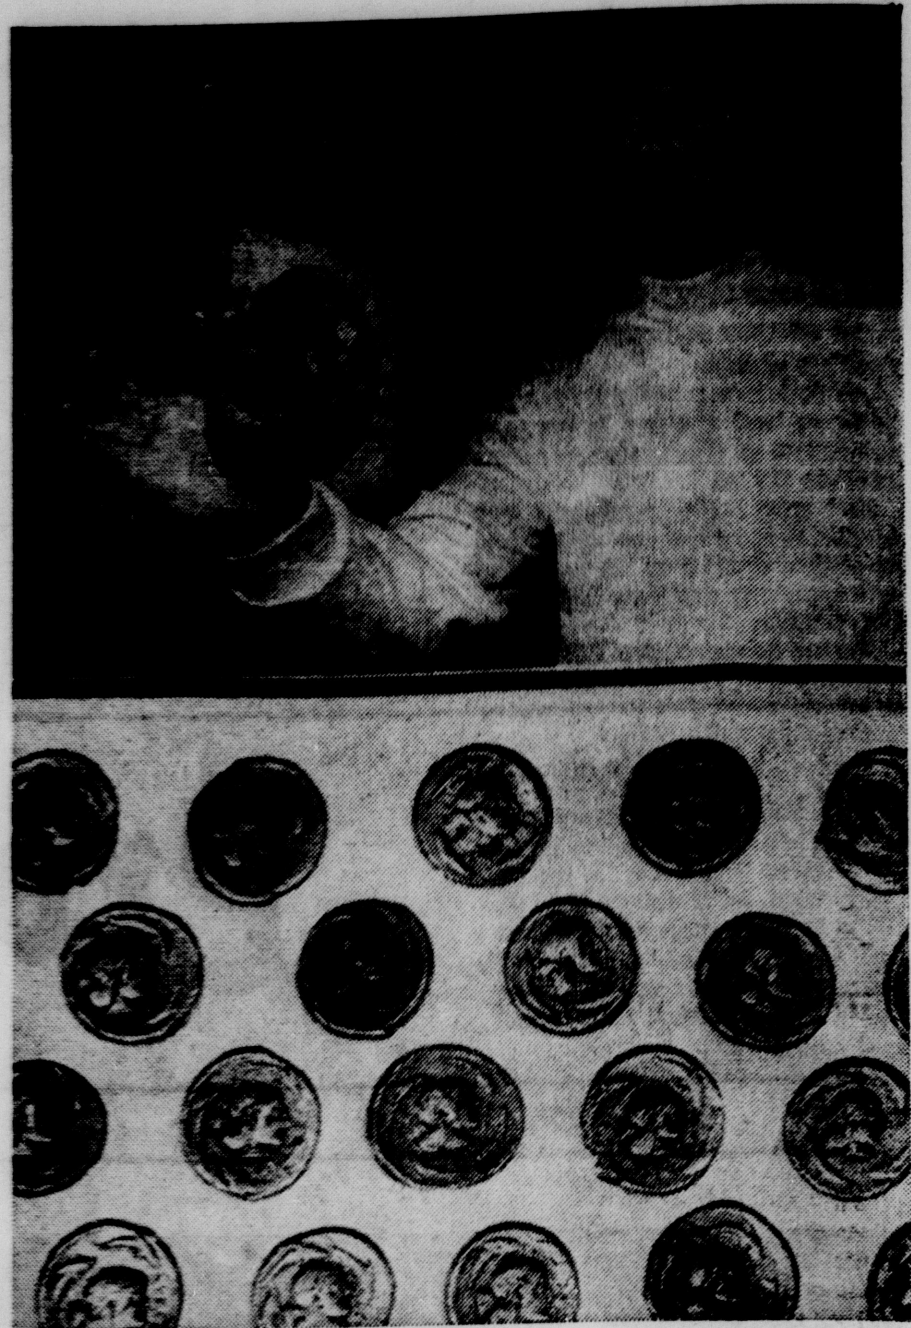

9:42 p.m., Pioneer flies behind Io, to see if it has an atmosphere. The occultation takes one minute 31 seconds.

10:40 p.m., Pioneer flies behind Jupiter for 65 minutes, investigating its atmosphere. During this time, the spacecraft is out of contact with Earth.

11:14 p.m., For the spacecraft, the sun is eclipsed by Jupiter. Pioneer spends one hour and 50 minutes in the Jovian night.

3:34 a.m., Tuesday, Pioneer leaves the area where radiation is believed to be the worst.

Then, Pioneer flies away from Jupiter, departing its magnetic field about a week later and moves toward the orbits of Neptune, Saturn, Uranus and Pluto before leaving the solar system in 1987.

Juan Corona loses eye

VACAVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Convicted mass killer Juan V. Corona has lost his left eye in an attack by fellow inmates who stabbed him 32 times with the two-inch blade of a prison hobby shop knife.

Four suspects were interrogated today at the California Medical Facility, a state prison, while the 1,950 other inmates were placed under a strict general lockup, the first in the institution's 18-year history.

Corona, sentenced to life imprisonment for the deaths of 25 farm workers, was quoted as calling the Saturday night stabbing "an unprovoked attack." The incident occurred in his cell shortly after he returned from kitchen duty.

Corona, 39, was rushed to the facility's hospital where his left eye was removed during three hours of surgery, said T.C. Clannon, superintendent. The right eye was not injured but the eyelid was torn and doctors sewed it shut.

Two other wounds penetrated his abdomen, requiring surgery to sew up punctures in his small intestines. The other wounds were superficial but left scars on his chest and around his eyes.

He was listed in "serious but stable condition" today.

After visiting with Corona Sunday, his attorney, Luis Garcia, said his client remembers only two inmates, whom he recognized, entering his cell before the stabbing occurred. He knew nothing about the other two prisoners apprehended, Garcia added.

Corona's cell was located on the first floor in the workers section and was left unlocked most of the time. Some 45 prisoners were in the section at the time, said Lt. Gordon Stevens, watch commander.

GOP 'had nothing to do' with scandal

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Peace Corps Director Joseph Blatchford says the Republican Party would be hurt only at the national level because of the Watergate scandal.

The party will continue to attract voters in statewide, municipal and county elections despite the scandals in Washington, Blatchford told a convention of the California Republican League Saturday.

"Party politics is a matter of cities and counties, and things aren't handed down from Washington, whether it's Republican party politics or national politics," said Blatchford. "I don't want the Republicans to take the rap for Watergate. The Republicans had nothing to do with it."

BOSTON (UPI) — Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith said Sunday President Nixon and his advisors have "mismanaged the economy" and a recession is possible.

"I think we can pretty well count on almost anything happening," Galbraith told newsmen before addressing an American Cancer Society symposium.

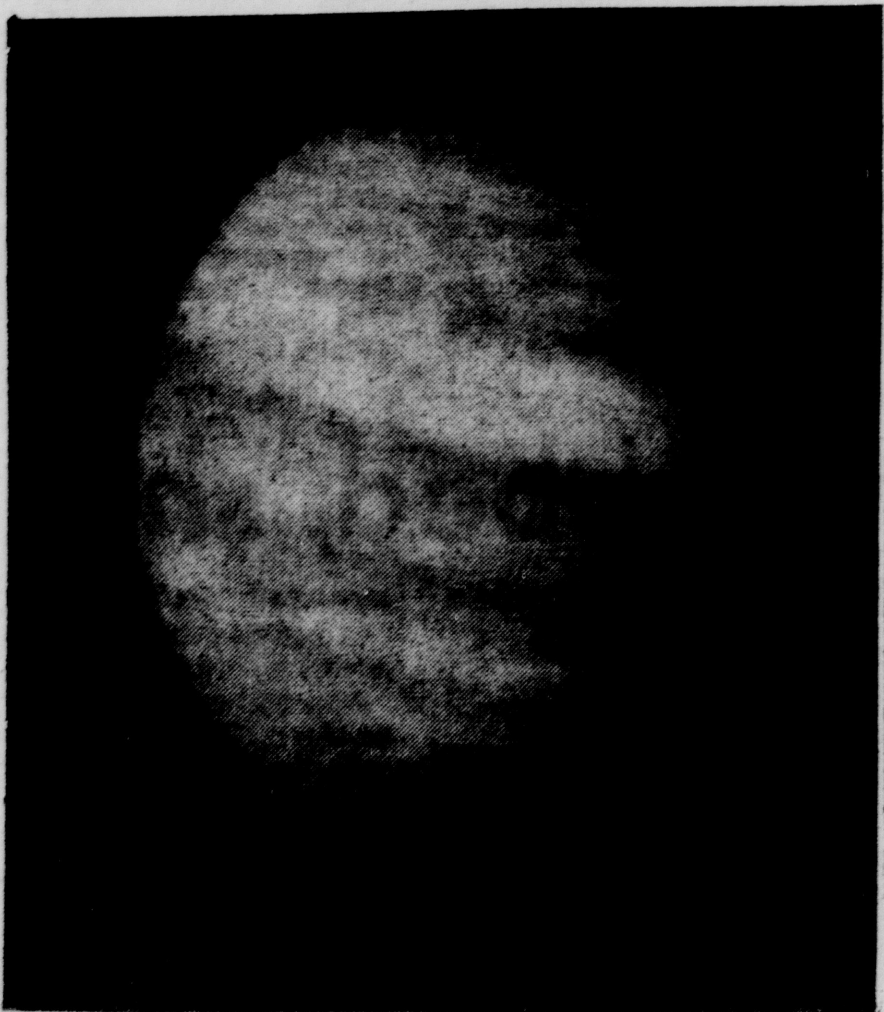

Galbraith, a former ambassador to India and advisor to President John F. Kennedy, said Nixon's advisors "stand about in the same relation to economic affairs as Billy Graham does in relation to sin. It's something that they preside over but they don't do anything about it."

Sen. Hughes to speak in Claremont

CLAREMONT — Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, will speak at Claremont Men's College Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in McKenna Auditorium.

The event is open to the public, and is sponsored by the college's public affairs program.

This may be Hughes' last appearance on the West Coast before retiring from politics to go into full-time religious work.

Hughes has served in the Senate since 1968 after serving three terms as governor of Iowa. He is a member of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare committee, the Armed Services committee, and the committee on Veterans' Affairs.

He is also assistant majority whip and a member of his party's Legislative Review committee.

To conserve energy

Upland schools cut field trips

UPLAND — In an effort to conserve energy, the Upland Elementary School District is eliminating all bus trips other than necessary transportation of students from home to school and return.

Dist. Supt. Bill Plaster announced the temporary ban will include transportation for all school athletic programs and all field trips in regular or special programs.

Transportation for students involved in cross-age tutoring programs on other campuses will also be curtailed, Plaster said.

Additionally, heating thermostats in all district buildings will be maintained at 66 degrees during school hours. At night thermostats will be lowered to 55 degrees except in rooms where meetings are being conducted.

Lights will be turned off in all classrooms at the end of the school day and night lighting will be kept at a minimum consistent with security and safety.

Employees of the district are also being reminded to conserve paper and custodial supplies, as well as maintenance and educational materials used on a day-to-day basis.

Agriculture officials detail fuel directive

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles County Agricultural Commissioner Ralph W. Lichty cautions that even though more diesel fuel will be made available for farming purposes during the next 60 days, fuel buyers should limit their purchases to actual current needs.

Lichty said a new directive from the U.S. Office of Petroleum Allocation indicates that purchases made during the two-month period beginning Nov. 20 will now be assessed against an adjusted total annual allocation for each farmer rather than on base period volume alone.

He also said farm production during this period will be given a very high order of preference in the allocation of diesel fuels but noted that as of now this will last only during the period between Nov. 20 and Jan. 20.

According to the directive, the preference applies to "delivery of diesel fuels in the middle distillate range during the 60-day period and does not apply to orders placed on a supplier for delivery beyond the next 60 days."

Lichty advises anyone engaged in agriculture who needs additional fuel to continue operations to make application to the U.S. Office of Oil and Gas through their wholesale supplier or dealer. If application forms are not available, purchasers should contact the office of the County Agricultural Commissioners, (213) 974-1601, for the request forms.

Deputy Director Robert Hartzell of the state's Department of Food and Agriculture echoed Lichty's warning on the permitted adjustment of fuel allocations. "Don't take more than you need now, because it will be counted against you over the year's period," he warned. One of Hartzell's duties has been coordination of information on the energy crisis as it applies to California agricultural production.

In the 60-day period Lichty said the U.S. Office of Petroleum Allocation has announced it will give preference in the allocation of diesel fuels under the Mandatory Allocation Program as follows:

—For the operation of prime movers on power units necessary for the exploration, production, refining and distribution of fossil fuels which includes petroleum, natural gas and coal.

—For the operation of mobile and fixed farm and ranch equipment essential to the planting, growth or harvesting of crops and livestock.

—For the operation of public mass transportation systems within metropolitan area when certified as essential to the public welfare by the Governor of the State to the Administrator.

Tunney supporting Ayala in Senate bid

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., has announced his support for San Bernardino County Supervisor Ruben Ayala in the 20th State Senatorial District special election to be held Dec. 18.

In a statement issued today Tunney said, "Ruben Ayala has demonstrated a unique dedication to public service over the years as a school board trustee and president, city councilman and mayor, and county supervisor. I know that he will do an outstanding job for the district and the people of California as the state senator from the 20th district."

"I am quite concerned that this most important election, carrying as it does, the balance of power in the state Senate, will be overlooked by the voters due to preoccupation with the holiday season," Tunney stated. "I, therefore, call the attention of the citizens of the 20th district to this special election and ask them to vote for Ruben Ayala."

WAGES OF WAR — Communist shells set the Shell Oil Co. Petroleum complex aflame near Saigon today, sending a huge column of smoke billowing over the South Vietnam capital. The complex was totally destroyed, and forced closing of gas stations in the country to preserve supplies.

Reds capture 3 Cambodian army positions

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Three government positions west of Phnom Penh fell during the weekend and the sector commander was replaced today in an effort to stiffen government forces, field reporters said. Combat intensified as the dry season approached.

All three positions are north of Highway 4, Phnom Penh's only route to the deepwater port of Kompong Som. Two of them are 14 miles west of the capital and one is 25 miles west.

Maj. Gen. Sosthene Fernandez, the Cambodian commander-in chief, and Maj. Gen. John Cleland, chief of the U.S. Military Equipment Delivery Team, visited the sector command post today just southwest of Phnom Penh. Dozens of Kompong Speu residents have left for the relative safety of Phnom Penh in the past three days.

Field reports said Brig. Gen. Chantearingsei has replaced Lt. Col. Chhun Y as commander of the Kompong Speu sector.

On Saturday, Communist troops overran Ang Khmao, 14 miles west of Phnom Penh and three miles north of Highway 4. Government forces fell back half a mile to Damnak Ampil, which fell in turn at sundown Sunday, field reporters said.

Phnom Phnom Khsach, 26 miles west of the capital, also fell on Saturday. Troops there fell back half a mile to Wat Ang Prasath, which immediately came under attack.

Highway 4 is clear all the way to Mohasang, 36 miles west of the capital. It has been blocked past Mohasang since Nov. 11.

The lead ships of the first Mekong River convoy in a week began arriving at Phnom Penh at sundown today after coming under sporadic fire from shore as they made their way upriver.

Off-ramp crash drivers okay

UPLAND — Marilyn Kay Fry, 22, of San Bernardino, escaped with minor injuries when her car ran into the rear of a car stopped at a traffic signal on the Mountain Avenue off-ramp of the San Bernardino Freeway Sunday afternoon, the highway patrol reported.

The driver of the second car, Donald L. Hexamer, 37, of 542 Maple Way, Upland, was not hurt. Miss Fry did not require medical treatment.

S.D. council to avoid extended plan hearings

SAN DIMAS — The City Council is hoping to avoid the lengthy public hearings on the general plan that kept planning commissioners convening until 2:30 a.m. last Monday night and has set an adjournment time of 11 p.m. for the first hearing tonight.

Tonight's hearing will begin at 7:30 but the time for Tuesday and Wednesday night's scheduled public hearings will be set by the council tonight.

Saigon oil complex hit, destroyed by Red rockets

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops demolished a sprawling American petroleum complex with a rocket attack on the outskirts of Saigon today. The government, already hard hit by the Middle East oil shortage, announced major cutbacks in civilian petroleum and electricity use.

Nguyen Duc Cuong, Minister of Trade and Industry, in a nationwide television address, tonight said the measures were approved at a cabinet meeting during the afternoon.

The new regulations would: —Prohibit the sale of gasoline on Saturdays and Sundays beginning this week.

—Set the maximum highway speed limit at 36 miles an hour. It presently is 50.

—Change the working hours of government employees to eliminate the three-hour noon "siesta" during which most workers used motorbikes or cars to go home for lunch. Under the new schedule employees will work from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with an hour off for lunch.

—Ban blackmarket gasoline sales.

—Prohibit electric light sign advertising.

—Reduce the electricity in government offices by 15 per cent. Earlier, electricity in government offices was cut by 25 per cent so the effect of the new regulations is to cut power in official buildings by a total of 40 per cent.

The Arab nations have not yet prohibited the sale of petroleum to South Vietnam because it makes its own oil purchases using U.S. funds.

However, officials said there is no guarantee South Vietnam will continue to be able to buy from Middle East nations and the country also is faced with the worldwide petroleum shortage.

"Moreover, Vietnam has to face the permanent destruction caused by the Communists who today shelled and destroyed a number of fuel tanks at Nha Be," Cuong said.

A company spokesman said the 49-rocket barrage demolished the Shell tank farm at Nha Be, six miles southeast of Saigon, wiping out about one third of South Vietnam's oil storage capacity and destroying up to 35 million gallons of fuel.

Peter Leach, deputy general manager of Shell in South Vietnam, said the Communists destroyed all of an estimated 25 to 30 fuel tanks at the Shell complex. He said it would take at least six months to replace them.

Leach said the tanks had a total capacity of 35 million gallons, but he was not sure of the amount of fuel inside at the time of the shelling.

Authorities ordered all of Saigon's gasoline stations closed after the attack, but a government spokesman insisted the shutdown was for a previously scheduled inventory check and had nothing to do with the shelling.

The shelling seemed likely to create serious energy problems for South Vietnam's economy, still caught between war and peace more than 10 months after signing a ceasefire accord with the Communists.

Nongovernment sources said South Vietnam normally keeps only a 15-day supply of petroleum on hand for civilian use. They said the military usually has a 30-day supply.

Every firefighting unit in Saigon and the capital's suburbs was sent to the Shell complex to help extinguish the towering flames left by the rockets. A massive black cloud hung over the capital for hours after the shelling.

Americans feel rich get richer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "The rich get richer and the poor get poorer" is a belief held by three out of four Americans surveyed in a poll for a Senate subcommittee. More than half think "there is something deeply wrong in America."

Trust in the executive branch of government, the Louis Harris polling organization reported Sunday, has fallen to the bottom in a list of social and political institutions in the nationwide sample of adults taken during the fall.

Respect for the press, the survey said, has "risen markedly" in the past six years. Overall public confidence in government institutions "drastically" declined during the same period, the poll reported.

Harris was to present the findings to the Senate intergovernmental relations subcommittee today.

Among government institutions, those polled had more confidence in local governments and institutions than in state and federal.

But state and local leaders surveyed disagreed with the public's view of a deepening crisis of confidence and saw crisis as an inherent part of the democratic system.

In summary, the survey showed:

—80 per cent said government could do better, but first has to abandon secrecy and cooperate more fully at all levels as well as with the people.

—76 per cent believe "the rich get richer and the poor get poorer."

—61 per cent believe "what you think doesn't count much anymore."

—55 per cent said "people running the country don't really care what happens to you."

—55 per cent are "alienated and disenchanted, feeling profoundly impotent to influence the actions of their leaders."

—53 per cent believe "there is something deeply wrong with America, that these are no ordinary times of crisis."

—25 per cent believe "government leaders are corrupt and immoral."

Folows demonstrations

S. Korea government shakeup

SEOUL (UPI) — President Park Chung-hee today announced a major government shakeup in the face of mounting nationwide student demonstrations against his regime.

Park, his government the target of angry student street gatherings and heated campus rallies since October, replaced 10 cabinet ministers and the director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Political observers said removal of Lee Hu-Rak as CIA director could help reopen the stalled political talks with North Korea. Lee's secret trip to North Korea last May got the talks started but his firmness in later sessions left them deadlocked.

The reshuffle was lightning fast. Park announced it about an hour after all ministers resigned en masse, declaring themselves responsible for the student unrest that has swept the country. But the president kept Premier Kim Chong-pil and nine other cabinet members in their positions.

College youths in Seoul and provincial towns have been demonstrating in increasingly large numbers since October, demanding the restoration of democracy in South Korea and an end to what they claim is totalitarian rule by Park's government.

The protesters also demanded restoration of campus and press freedoms and that students under arrest for activism be released.

Park's dramatic announcement came one day after progovernment and opposition lawmakers joined in adopting a five-point recommendation urging creation of corruption-free democratic reforms.

The sudden shakeup was believed part of Park's effort to carry out the reforms and restore order in the country. However, no major shift in government policies were immediately expected.

Among the new appointments were former Justice Minister Shin Jik-soo, named director of the Central Intelligence Agency to replace Lee Hu-Rak. Former deputy CIA director Kim Chong took over as attorney general.

Kim Dong-jo, currently ambassador to the United States, was appointed new foreign minister to succeed Kim Yongsik, who was named minister of national unification.

Government sources said Ham Byung-chun, a presidential advisor, would succeed Kim Dong-jo as ambassador to the United States.

Obituaries

Margaret Waller

POMONA — Mrs. Margaret A. "Peg" Waller, wife of William O. Waller of 2145 Saticoy Ave., died Friday afternoon in Pomona Valley Community Hospital following a year's illness.

Mrs. Waller was born in Omaha, Neb., on June 8, 1920, and had been a resident of the Pomona Valley for 52 years. She was a graduate of Pomona High School and Pomona Junior College and had attended Pomona College. Mrs. Waller had been an employee of the Pomona Recreation Department for 12 years before receiving a leave of absence for illness a year ago.

Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, Miss Terrell Waller at home and Mrs. Shelley Homer of Pomona, and several cousins.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. Private burial will be made. Friends may make memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society, 111 W. Center St., 91768.

Daniel Tuls

CHINO — Daniel Mark Tuls, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tuls of 8061 Edison Ave., died at birth in Pomona Valley Community Hospital on Saturday.

Besides the parents, survivors include three brothers, Jack Michael, Pete Steven and Todd David, all at home; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Tuls of Chino and Mr. and Mrs. Pete DeGroot of Artesia.

Graveside services will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Forest Lawn Covina Hills. Griffith Mortuary is in charge of arrangements. Memorial contributions may be made to the Calvary Christian Reformed Church, Chino.

Pickup hits car; two hurt

POMONA — Two people were injured in a collision on the San Bernardino Freeway west of Mountain Avenue Saturday.

The highway patrol said a pickup truck driven by Rodney A. Bakke, 34, of 21027 E. Cienega Ave., Covina, struck a car driven by Sylvia Telphy, 19, of San Bernardino, as he was attempting to pass. Miss Telphy's car spun off the freeway, and the pickup crashed into the center divider.

Bakke was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released. Miss Telphy was reported in good condition there this morning.

Second part of LaVerne plan before councilmen

LA VERNE — The City Council is scheduled to take action tonight on the second portion of its proposed general plan — the part which deals with the area south of Foothill Boulevard and west of B Street.

The only serious opposition to the plan is coming from property owners just south of Foothill Boulevard and east of Wheeler Avenue.

Now zoned commercial, several strips along the boulevard would be rolled back to multiple residential and administrative professional zones.

Property owners and developers want to use the Foothill property as well as some on Wheeler for commercial purposes.

The council is also expected to take final action on an ordinance that would set up a franchise requirement within the city for the operation of cable television service.

Right now the service is run with a business license, under minimal control from the city.

Residents along Wheeler Avenue north of Base Line Road who subscribe to the service have been complaining about the service they have been getting. This has caused the council to set up regulations and to call for bids for the right to offer cable television to residents.

A group of women, headed by Mrs. Jessie Butler, will make another attempt to acquire a city ordinance that would require developers to include day child care centers in sizable residential subdivisions.

The request, although it received praise, failed to generate a recommendation from the Planning Commission.

Ends 30-year fight

Presbyterians split into 2 denominations

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A schism within the Presbyterian Church of the U.S. will be formalized Tuesday night when conservatives create a new denomination at a four-day meeting expected to draw 1,000 delegates.

A moderator to replace the temporary presiding officer, Jack Williamson, an attorney from Greenville, Ala., also will be selected on the opening night of the founding General Assembly, to be held at Briarwood Presbyterian Church.

The meeting continues through Friday, with the final three days devoted to committee sessions and worship services.

The schism climaxes three decades of conflict between liberals and conservatives. The conservatives decided in 1971 to work toward a new church and they voted at a meeting in Atlanta in May to break away.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S. has about one million members in about 4,000 congregations in 15 Southern states, but less than 10 per cent of the members are breaking away.

The conservatives believe in the authority of the Bible and regard the virgin birth and other traditional fundamentalist doctrines as tests of orthodoxy.

The Westminster Confession of 1648, the basis of reformed Protestantism, is considered by the conservatives as the authoritative guide to interpreting scripture.

Conservatives object to the denomination's statements recognizing the morality of abortion, divorce and remarriage and opposing capital punishment.

Liberals argue that belief in the Bible and the Westminster Confession does not prevent the church from taking into account new scientific knowledge or changing social customs.

Conservatives also oppose the church's plan to merge with the more liberal United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and its willingness to ordain women.

Jim: "Here is a simple one called, 'The power of the pop up play'. Just look at the West and North hands and the bidding. We'll give you a clue to the proper play. You decide to open a heart and not your singleton ace of diamonds."

Oswald: "That is quite a clue because we feel that the ace of diamonds lead would almost surely be the best opening. Anyway you do open the eight of hearts and your partner proceeds to cash three heart tricks while South follows suit. You have to discard on the third heart. What discard do you make?"

Jim: "There is one and just one discard that will guarantee defeat of the contract. Pop up with your ace of diamonds."

Oswald: "This sensational discard will get your partner to lead a diamond. If South ruffs with the nine you will score your ten spot of trumps immediately. If he ruffs with a high trump you will collect the setting trick with it later on. Either way you get a plus score."

Oregon ranks second in state airports

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — The State Aeronautics Division reports that Oregon ranks second only to Alaska in the number of state-owned and operated general aviation airports.

There are 6,088 registered airmen in Oregon, 2,459 registered aircraft, 39 municipal airports, 43 commercial airports, 134 private-use airports, 70 heliports, 6 federal airports and 44 state-owned airports. The approximate total assets in general aviation aircraft and airports in Oregon are in excess of $250 million.

Couples wage closet warfare

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

I always read with interest these advertisements for the computer service match-a-date in which some punched tape guarantees to find you the perfect wife. I mean, she's blonde and sexy and likes Mozart, and you like Mozart, so you are ideally suited.

I presume, without going into it any further, that there are some recommendations for this dial-a-doll service — helps you weed out thousands of chicks who don't like Mozart — but there are elements that even the IBM 888 can't encompass. Will the computer tell you that your luscious, educated, earning $10,000-a-year wife doesn't know how to fry an egg? (Who cares, right?) Or that your blue-eyed baby who majored in music appreciation hangs pantyhose on the shower rack and thinks the Game of the Week is the Hollywood Squares. Even a computer has its limits.

Nowhere does the limitation of the computer become more apparent than when one considers the infinite variety of lissome young things the average man is tempted with, computer-aided or not, who insist on hanging their dresses in his closet. It does no good to scream "Why don't you go home to your mother?" or "Why don't you go back to the IBM 880?" Some — well, many — perhaps most women insist upon looking on any empty space in hubby's closet as an open area for their frocks, gowns and coats, a no-man's-land for women.

To young married men, a word of warning. It starts very slowly, this encroachment on your wardrobe space, a movement as silent and unnoticed as the growth of crab grass. Your little IBM darling may even warn you — a subtle device. "Darling," you have so much room in your closet, and mine is so crammed, do you mind if I hang a few of my things in with your suits?" Mindful of your capacious wardrobe and your four crummy suits, you say airily, "Sure, go ahead." Before you can say Bullock's, your closet is jammed with enough dresses to open a Goodwill.

That "a few of my things" turns out to be several dresses, a couple of formal gowns, a coat or two, plus some undefinable things in plastic bags. Your four little suits are squeezed together like commuters on a subway.

And the invasion continues as the weeks pass. More frocks appear, more sweaters on hangars, more cocktail gowns. When you have worn a suit and attempt to return it to its accustomed place, its accustomed place is occupied by a sports frock, a dressy print, and a hostess gown.

Resignedly (if you haven't been married long) you hang your suit on a hook and take out a second suit. When you attempt to return it to its rightful place you encounter a cocktail dress, a pants suit and a housecoat.

Why does the Ms. of the species always win in the game of closet warfare? Why do they always have their choice of numerous gay frocks, while you have a selection of four suits compressed in the corner of the closet like flounders on a hook?

Beware that warning signal — "A few of my things!"

Agriculture remains major Texas activity

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Despite urbanizing trends, throw your money around too freely today. If you make any loans, be sure to get a promissory note.

Your Birthday
Dec. 4

New opportunities will come your way this year, offering real promise. Do put forth your best efforts and total dedication to reap full benefits.

agriculture remains a major sector of the Texas economy — partly because of a phenomenal increase in irrigation farming over the past 40 years.

Latest statistics compiled by the Texas Water Development Board indicate the number of acres of land under irrigation in the state has jumped from a modest amount in the 1930s to 6.9 million acres in 1968 and 8.4 million in 1969.

The doctor comments

Aneurysm doesn't mean heart is bad

DEAR DR. LAMB — My dear husband died 15 months ago of what the doctor called a ruptured aortic aneurysm. My husband never complained about his heart. Doctors always told him he had a strong heart, and yet he died from his heart. My husband was only 50 years old and very healthy and strong. His death left me very broken hearted because it was so unexpected.

Doctor, what I would like to know is how could this happen to such a strong, healthy man, what causes an aortic aneurysm, and just what is it?

DEAR READER — It is always a shock when you lose a loved one, particularly when he has seemed so healthy. There is no opportunity to be prepared to accept the inevitable.

Your husband's problem was not his heart. The aorta is the large artery that carries all the oxygen loaded red blood from the left side of the heart to all the rest of the body. It is the main artery. It curves up over the heart in the top of the chest and makes a U-turn, then passes down to the legs. It gives off branches to all parts of the body on its way, including the arteries to the brain. It's really a big tube.

The wall of this big tube is elastic and stretches just like a rubber inner tube. When a spot in the tube becomes weakened, overstretched, or damaged, it will balloon out on the side like a weak spot on an inner tube. The ballooned out area is the aneurysm. When such an aneurysm is of the wall of the aorta, it is called an aortic aneurysm.

Since the aorta courses through the chest and down the abdomen, the aneurysm can be either in the chest or the abdomen. In most people now, the weakened spot is caused by atherosclerosis, the same disease that involves the arteries to the heart to cause heart disease. Fatty cholesterol deposits damage the tube and cause the problem. You can have a perfectly good heart and still have an aneurysm somewhere along the aorta, or even in another artery.

Sometimes you can see the aneurysm by X rays. Those in the chest are often found this way. I recall several of these being found by X rays of the abdomen in pilots. These were men in apparent good health. One of them had been operated on for a chest problem. Yet, the aneurysm in the abdomen couldn't be felt by abdominal examination. This is particularly apt to occur if the abdomen is large. On a thinner individual the larger aneurysms are easily felt. Extra exams like abdominal X rays often find things that would otherwise be missed. Doctors don't do more such tests because they are expensive and time consuming.

Mansfield backs away from Saxbe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., who previously supported Sen. William B. Saxbe's nomination to be attorney general, has backed off his endorsement, citing "grave constitutional questions."

"I think there are grave constitutional questions involved and I'm in the process of reassessing my position on it," Mansfield said.

Mansfield was asked by reporters about a bill due before the Senate later this week to temporarily lower the attorney general's salary from $60,000 to $35,000 so Saxbe can serve.

The legislation is intended to overcome a constitutional bar on any member of Congress serving in a government position after the salary for the job has been raised while he was serving in Congress.

Saxbe voted in 1969 in favor of an increase in the attorney general's salary.

health. One of them had been operated on for a chest problem. Yet, the aneurysm in the abdomen couldn't be felt by abdominal examination. This is particularly apt to occur if the abdomen is large. On a thinner individual the larger aneurysms are easily felt. Extra exams like abdominal X rays often find things that would otherwise be missed. Doctors don't do more such tests because they are expensive and time consuming.

When an aneurysm is found and the person is able to have surgery, it usually can be removed and replaced by a graft. These are highly successful, and the operation not too difficult in skilled hands. But, of course, first the aneurysm must be found.

If it is not found, it may rupture suddenly. That is why most doctors agree that if one exists it is best to correct it if at all possible.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin P.O. Box 1551, Radio City station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on the menopause, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Menopause" booklet.

Journalism classes relive day that JFK assassinated

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — constructed yearly in Point Park College journalism classes through the original minute-by-minute United Press International account.

Point Park instructor George Thomas, who was executive news editor of a Pittsburgh television station during that eventful day in Dallas, saved the now faded dispatches that rolled off a UPI teletype machine Nov. 22, 1963.

He said he shows it each year to the students in his classes so they can experience the unveiling of the tragedy and note how reporters met the challenge of reporting "one of the greatest stories of the century."

"When the roll reaches the words, 'Flash President dead,' students reflect an emotional letdown, though they hardly remember him," Thomas said.

The wire copy also contains the report of the late UPI correspondent Merriman Smith.

Hoffman tells why he pulled out

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Dustin Hoffman quit the movies cold more than a year ago but few people were aware of it until he decided to return to work.

"I was upset with two movies I'd made," said the star of "The Graduate," "Midnight Cowboy" and "Straw Dogs." "Neither of them turned out as I expected. I was depressed because the producers didn't live up to the contracts as I understood them."

"I'd always told myself if I began to dry up creatively I'd walk away from acting. I didn't want to be in the position of making bad motion pictures. I made two and I thought I'd had it."

The picture that threw Hoffman for a loop was "Alfredo,"

Alfredo."

It was made in Italy with an all-Italian cast except for himself. He understood his role would be dubbed in Italian. Instead the producers decided to dub everyone else in English.

"That wasn't fair to the basic idea and the rest of the cast," Hoffman said. "Finally Paramount bought the film and dubbed my voice, using subtitles for the whole picture."

Hoffman burrowed into his Manhattan house for a full year, becoming something of a recluse. He refused to talk about future movies.

"I wanted to quit 'Alfredo,' when we were in production," he said. "But I learned an actor gives up that kind of independence when he becomes a star. When I played minor roles I could walk away from any part. It only affected me. Now it throws everyone out of work. It's a luxury."

The diminutive actor (5-feet, 6-inches) was lured back to movies by money. He earned twice the salary he has never received for co-starring with Steve McQueen in "Papillon."

"It wasn't easy being idle for a year," he said, "but it's better that way than to burn yourself out doing pictures you don't like."

"There was so much money involved in 'Papillon' I had to consider the offer. McQueen got such a big salary he set a precedent. I liked the character I was going to play even if it was a secondary role like the one I did in 'Midnight Cowboy.'

"So I took the part because I felt like working in that particular picture and the money was so good it meant I wouldn't have to work again for at least two years if I didn't want to."

Hoffman was in Hollywood to research still another movie. He will star in the title role of "Lenny," a biography of the late comedian Lenny Bruce.

"I always wanted to be a comedian when I was a boy," Hoffman said. "I used to get in trouble at school for clowning around. And now I have the chance to play a stand-up comedian, although God knows Lenny Bruce was a lot more than that."

He added that "Alfredo, Alfredo" would soon be released across the country but he didn't sound too enthusiastic about it.

Bit Parts: Joe Campanella and Diana Hyland will star in "The Things I Never Said," first of five 90-minute television dramatic specials by Screen Gems ... Lew Ayres, who made his movie debut with Greta Garbo in 1929, will play a guest role with James Stewart on "Hawkins" ... Susan George will star opposite Peter Fonda in "Dirty Mary Crazy Larry" for 20th Century-Fox ...

STYLE IN CERAMICS — This vase, "HMS No. 3," is one of the works of Claremont ceramist Harrison McIntoch in his one-man show at Griswold's Art Gallery, Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards, in Claremont. The exhibit runs through Dec. 28.

Angel Tompkins still seeking star status

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Angel Tompkins is blonde, beautiful, sexy and has made eight motion pictures, all of which she says was true of Marilyn Monroe at one time.

Yet Angel is no Monroe and doubtless never will be.

But she would like to be. It appears sex symbols or movie goddesses have had their day. How can Raquel Welch compete with the centerfolds of half a dozen magazines?

Angel did the "whole" nude bit for Playboy a year or so ago. So far as she knows it neither helped nor hindered her career. All the layout did was convince several million people that Angel looked terrific bare naked.

She recently completed a costarring role with Anthony Quinn in "The Don Is Dead" at Universal where she has worked before. She has no contract.

"There were very few women stars who weren't under contract to a studio," Angel said. "And part of the contract — unwritten — was that they were 'kept' by a big executive or producer."

"Even today a successful actress has to become somebody's wife, mistress or have an outside business to gain the status of a star."

Angel was reminded that Barbra Streisand was nobody's wife or mistress, "Yes," she replied, "but look at all the money she makes from her music. She can afford to choose her movie roles.

"I can't afford to be a star. I walk into chic shops and they want $600 for a dress. In the old days stars wouldn't think twice about buying several outfits for that price."

"It's impossible to find large salaries anymore. That's why there aren't many big stars. In the movie before this one I worked for $12,000. But only $3,000 was cash. The rest was deferred payments."

"In the old days they paid 10 times that amount for leading ladies."

Angel has been married and divorced. She lives at the beach in a makeshift house with her 10-year-old son and a foster son. She, like Monroe was a foster child.

"I have to support all three of us on what I earn," she said. "I couldn't think of living with someone for economic reasons."

"A while ago I tried being a sort of kept woman for three months. I was being evicted from my house and a rich boyfriend rented the house for me. We didn't live together, but he made me feel obligated. So I called off the arrangement. It's better to be independent."

Angel drives a nine-year-old sports car. Her house is so small it resembles a cramped trailer.

Why, she was asked, doesn't she forget about acting and Hollywood and find a better paying job with a brighter future?

"I keep working in pictures because I love it," she said. "I want to be creative. Sometimes I wonder why I don't quit, and then I see myself in

Wedding gifts finally catch up with couple

A Pomona Valley moving firm contracted to transport my daughter's wedding presents to her new home in Cleveland. The bride and groom signed the contract just before their wedding date almost three months ago. The moving firm was to be notified of the pickup date when I returned from vacation the following month.

I notified the firm but the truck didn't show up on the date arranged. It was loaded with the wedding presents a few days later. I was assured that the shipment would be marked for rapid handling due to the mistake in the original pickup date.

The delivery date came and went but the young people did not receive their gifts. When they called the firm's office in Cleveland, they were twice told there was no record of shipment under their name or mine. I had paid $248 for the shipment in advance to save the couple expense. I had listed both names on the papers.

I feel that the young people have been unfairly treated. They do not know where their things are and have stayed close to home awaiting shipment or notification. Their bedding and kitchen equipment were included in the shipment and the past weeks have not been comfortable for them.

I am hopeful that with the influence your column has, the wedding presents can be located and delivered so that the young people may enjoy them. They have been using camping gear far too long. — J.T., Pomona.

You told us you thought the shipment had been lost. The local representative of the shipping firm assured us it was not, saying there had been a lack of communication within the firm.

He gave us a new delivery date and it was fulfilled, three days after you wrote to us.

I ordered two bar stools from a firm in San Gabriel Valley last May. They were to be paid for in full, $44, and picked up at the firm's Whittier store in six to eight weeks. This is approximately a 75-mile round trip for me.

When I picked up the stools, both had cracked legs. The Whittier store manager asked me to use them and said he would order two new bases.

After six weeks of letters and toll calls, I finally was told to bring the stools for new bases. When I did so, they couldn't find the bases.

The shipping clerk asked me to leave the stools, promising delivery by truck the next day with no shipping charge. I agreed and he signed for the stools on the back of my bill. That was the last of my stools.

I have called and written to three offices of the firm with no acknowledgement. — Mrs. A.K., Upland.

We talked with people at the store in San Gabriel Valley and followed up the conversation with a letter.

About two weeks later, we received a letter from you saying you had been asked to go to the store for a refund. You did so and received credit on your charge card account. You no longer feel badly about having been stood up.

Four months ago I sent a check for $22 to the Centaur of Philadelphia for two pieces of jewelry. Within two weeks I received one piece, a Byzantine necklace, along with a promise that the second piece, an Aztec Calendar necklace, would be sent later.

After a month, I wrote to the Centaur to jog his memory. I had an answer saying the necklace would be sent in 2½ weeks. Again I waited and didn't receive it. I wrote again, asking for the necklace or my money. I haven't received either. — Mrs. R.P., Upland.

After we wrote to the Centaur, the mailman came trotting to your door with your jewelry.

Old theater cultural center?

POMONA — An Subcommittee appointed by the Cultural Arts Commission will explore the possibility of reopening the United Artists Theater downtown as a Pomona Valley Center for cultural arts and other programs.

Formation of the subcommittee came following a written request from a group of citizens that "the greatest need to erase Pomona's cultural lag (is) a place for the many artists of this valley to perform."

The request contains the signatures of Mrs. Dolly Ziolkowski, Mrs. Harry Gousha, C. Mack Gilliland, Mrs. Helen Selby, Ray Woods, Frank Cummings, Mrs. Harry Williamson and Harold Goodell.

The group's request was discussed at a meeting of the commission last week.

According to the request, at one of the seminars held during Pomona Redevelopment Week Nov. 11 through 16, the consensus of those attending was that a great need exists for a civic auditorium.

"The United Artists Theater, which has in recent months been dark and unused, was suggested as a possible place to prove the cultural need for such a facility without initially moving toward a great deal of expenditure such as a new and modern theater and a civic auditorium would entail," the group wrote.

According to fire department records, the operators voluntarily closed the theater after receiving notification in November 1972 that because of unsafe conditions, changes would have to be made to bring the place up to standards.

"The United Artists theater, under control of one responsible incorporated artist group, would be the proof of such a need and the facility being a live and going concern," the request reads.

"The theater could be made available to the schools and to all performing artists, both amateur and professional, on a reasonable basis. Nothing is available for community functions in Pomona at present, worthy to be called a theater."

United Artists, on Third Street west of Thomas Street, is in an area the city redevelopment master plan proposes for use as a conference center and civic auditorium.

But citizens attending the meeting said that until that happens, the vacant theater could be used as a place for the performing arts.

Member Philip Browne, on whose motion the commission unanimously voted to create the subcommittee, asked that the latter study a number of factors, such as renovation costs, possible uses and technicians who would be available.

"God knows the children of Pomona need cultural arts, other than what is already available," said Browne.

MUFFLER ADDED TO POLICE HELICOPTER

Chief Pomona Police Department pilot Ernie Neumann, right, shows Mayor Ray Lepire the new muffler which recently was installed on one of the two helicopters flown by the department. The system, which cost $500, is expected to cut the noise of the machine almost in half, authorities said.

Muffler cuts noise of police 'copter

POMONA — One Pomona Police Department helicopter has been muffled, Chief of Police F. P. Wallick announced.

The muffler, manufactured by A & H Welding of Sun Valley, was installed on one of the department's two helicopters earlier this month. The device is approved by the Federal Aviation Administration, Wallick said. He added that it was tested with the cooperation of the FAA and was found to reduce engine noise by 42 per cent.

Readings prior to installation recorded a decibel noise level of 79, with the helicopter hovering at 300 feet upwind. Tests indicated that the muffler system reduced the reading by an average of more than 42 per cent.

The chief said he hoped citizens would notice the difference in sound made by the modified helicopter. He described it as a vast improvement over the unmuffled craft. He warned, however, that there always will be some "wind slap," made by the rotor blade under certain wind conditions. The effect results when the outer tips of the blade approach the speed of sound. A popping noise under those conditions is created.

The system has been ordered for the department's second aircraft and is expected to be installed soon. The original cost was $500, but the second has risen in price to $750.

"It is the desire of the Pomona Police Department to provide citizens with an effective helicopter police program," said Wallick. "We feel that the present exhaust muffling system will help provide this service with approximately one half the noise associated with the patrol program during the past four years."

Claremont trustees to study pay raises

CLAREMONT — Pay raises for employees, teachers and administrators will be considered by the Claremont school board tonight at 8:30 at the Education Center.

The raises would become effective Jan. 1 1974.

Dr. R. S. Kirkendall, district superintendent, has recommended adoption of new salary schedules because the Claremont district has fallen below the median of the 13 East San Gabriel Valley school districts by which the board measures salaries.

Kirkendall explained that many districts adopted new salary schedules as late as September, whereas the local district granted pay increases in early June.

Classified employees would receive pay hikes averaging 3.5 per cent while beginning teachers' base pay would be increased from $7,900 to $8,141 and top salaries will go up about $400.

Mrs. Sue Peterson, president of the teachers group, estimated the increase might be $120 over the next six months beginning Jan. 1.

The board will hear a progress report on district attempts to recoup vandalism losses and will receive a report on student enrollment projections for 1974-75.

Ewart's opens third store, in San Bernardino

POMONA — Ewart's long-time men's wear store in Pomona, has opened a new store in San Bernardino in the new Central City Mall, according to Robert and David Ewart, owners of the firm.

Founded in Pomona in 1908 by David Ewart, grandfather and great-grandfather of the present owners, Ewart's has been operated continuously under the same family management for the past 65 years. Today, in addition to Ewart's Pomona, located in the Pomona Valley Center, there is a Ewart's Riverside in the Riverside Plaza and now the new Ewart's in San Bernardino.

Cliff Watts, formerly of Pomona, is store manager for the new Ewart's San Bernardino.

35 new members initiated into Cal Poly Society

POMONA — Thirty-five new members have been initiated into Cal Poly's Nu Chapter of Tau Beta Pi, the national engineering honor society.

Chosen for distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates or by their attainments as alumni were Conrad Newberry and John O'Neil, eminent engineers; undergraduates Mark Amaya, Mark Anderson, Nilza Askins, John Barnard, David Bradley, Kim Chun, Arie Cohen, Elee Dumas, William Gibbs, Richard Gold, Michael Hudson, Aftab Kapadia, Tien Le, Herbert Lee, Art Lehtinen, Charles Mayfield, Don Morais, Ha Nguyen, Dennis O'Gorman, Clarence Olson, Eric Pastell, Gerald Ragland, Hannes Richter, Charles Ross, Homer Savage, Thomas Schmitt, Patrick Shinoda, Elwood Smetana, Steven Smith, Lance Strandboge, James Sturdy, Srichai Techasomboonrakit and Sonny Wong.

Selected as the chapter's new officers were Nilza Askins, president; Dennis O'Gorman, vice president; David Bradley, corresponding secretary; Hannes Richter, recording secretary; Elee Dumas, cataloging secretary; and Art Lentinen, treasurer.

Home Economics items will be sold

WALNUT — Hand-made craft and creative items made by members of the Mt. San Antonio College Home Economics Club, will be on sale Tuesday and Wednesday.

Proceeds from the sale to be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day in Room 7 Building 20 will be donated to the G. Allen Sherman Memorial Scholarship Fund for home economics students.

Police chief, wife will participate in Yule parade

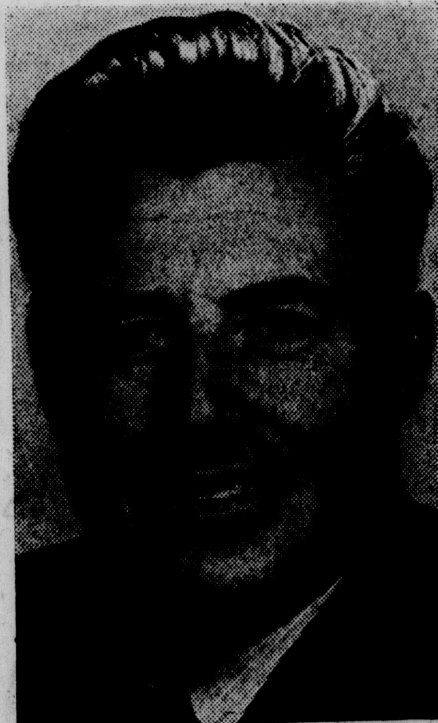

POMONA — Police Chief Forest P. Wallick, 48, and his wife, Claudia, will be participants in the 21st annual Pomona Christmas parade on Saturday.

The parade will start at 6 p.m. and proceed east along Holt Avenue from Hamilton Boulevard to Palomares Street.

Wallick was named chief of police on Feb. 1, 1973, succeeding Ralph Parker who retired.

Wallick joined the Pomona Police Department in July of 1949. He served as a foot patrolman and in radio cars until being promoted to the rank of sergeant in 1954.

He was elevated to lieutenant in 1958, captain in 1965 and in 1970 replaced Donald P. Burke as assistant chief.

Did the Arabs shoot too soon?

It is now clear President Nixon's advisers believe that if the United States shows enough determination in emergency petroleum belt-tightening, the Arab countries will relent and loosen their oil embargo — or scrap it altogether.

This would not end the energy shortage, but would certainly make it measurably easier.

It is noted here that some Mideast leaders already see a long run net loss to the Arab cause by an embargo which causes this country to pursue a 10-to-15-year multi-billion dollar program making us independent of Arab oil. For this program, if completed, would emasculate their most potent petroleum weapon.

Some important Arab leaders are known to have opposed an oil boycott at this time, believing that an embargo now is poor strategy. An oil shut-off today causes anguish in the United States — but no knockout punch, they argued. These men wanted to hold off a few years until the United States became more heavily dependent on Mideast oil, then strike. Another five years would not change the Israeli situation. But by the time, these men believed, an Arab oil shut-off would cause a major U.S. depression. Washington, faced with such a threat, they said, would have no other road but capitulation.

This all assumes America would have rocked along with complacency in the years ahead, not spending the billions required to find alternate energy sources.

Now, having used this petroleum weapon, and having frightened this country, the Arabs may have dulled the embargo's effectiveness for 1978 or 1980, especially if Washington not only carries through with its hefty — $40 billion plus — contemplated programs, but shares that know-how with West Europe and Japan.

Not only would the Arabs perhaps be back where they started, but so would be the Russians, who could no longer use oil to stir up dissension between the United States and its allies.

The Arab problem then is how to exert just enough pressure on the U.S. just long enough to get Washington to maneuver Israel back from the Arab territories it now holds, then to ease that pressure quickly enough so that this nation will abandon much of the mammoth energy development program now being planned. And that may be a very tight road for the Arabs to walk.

Religion as a theme of American history

Prayer and Bible-reading, as acts of devotion and worship, cannot be organized by the public schools. The 1963 Supreme Court ruling embroiled this country in a sustained controversy and new movements flourish within Congress to set down new laws that would permit such rituals in the nation's schools. What many citizens failed to learn or simply ignored, was the Court's support of teaching and education about religion.

A fair number of high schools offer a study of the Bible as literature and history. Some schools in California deal with religious teachings from an ethical perspective. But many secondary schools are blank on the religious currents that have shaped this nation and its people from the very beginning.

One reason for the great emptiness in classroom religious studies is the lack of appropriate materials. Religious educators have not fully recognized the opportunity for fresh books, study guides, and pamphlets that are needed in our secular school system. But the cause is not lost if Norman Vincent Peale has anything to say — or write — about it. In a new booklet (free to teachers and students) Dr. Peale and his Foundation For Christian Living have produced a most readable, dramatic story of religion in the life of America.

"A new Birth of Freedom" covers a range of men and women who played heroic roles in the development of the American continent. In doing so, it cuts across religious, racial, and ethnic boundaries. Here is Father Jacques Marquette, the Jesuit pioneer priest who opened up the Mississippi, or Sequoia, the Indian chief who invented the Cherokee alphabet. Also covered is the famous suffragette Susan B. Anthony and her 19th century battle for the right to vote. Congregational missionaries moving out to Hawaiian Islands, Haym Solomon and his key role in being the "broker" of the American Revolution are discussed carefully and helpfully.

So far the project is a staggering success. Requests are pouring into the Foundation For Christian Living, Box N, Pawling, N.Y. 12564, at the rate of 200,000 a day. One reason that this good work is so well received is the composition and layout. It is well illustrated, colorful and precise. The contribution of Black leaders from revolutionary times to the late Martin Luther King, Jr. are helpfully interpreted for young readers.

Ruth and Norman Peale have created a powerful enterprise that is non-profit and non-sectarian. Although steeped deeply within the Christian faith, this booklet expresses the convictions of others with the same forcefulness that their followers would expect. Perhaps that is what America is all about anyway.

Oil profits, campaign cash

WASHINGTON — Hidden in an am bed of campaign statistics is evidence that the oil barons invested in politics last year even more heavily than their critics realized. We have now painstakingly traced at least $5 million from oil and gas sources into President Nixon's campaign.

This may help explain why the great oil crisis doesn't seem to have hurt the big oil companies. Only their customers are suffering. Governments may rise and fall; wars may shake the world. But the oil dividends keep pouring in, remarkably unaffected by international events.

The first signs of an oil shortage appeared as early as 1969. Yet most oil companies wanted to hold down imports in order to keep prices up. The President listened to the oilmen until the warnings became more urgent. Not until late 1971 did he finally increase import quotas slightly.

By the spring of 1972, a shortage of 350,000 barrels a day was predicted. Still the oil industry's fixer in the White House, Peter Flanigan, fought against more imports. This was the same time that the oil money was gushing into Nixon's campaign coffers. Result: Our oil reserves weren't replenished with Arab oil when it was available.

Not united

The more critical the shortage became, the higher oil profits soared. It should be pointed out, of course, that the oil companies don't always present a united front but often make conflicting demands upon the government. Yet out of the turmoil has come government policies, which usually have made money for the oil and gas industry.

Most of these policies seem to have originated with the American Petroleum Institute and the National Petroleum Council. These two powerful bodies, which advise the Nixon Administration on gas and oil, are loaded with Nixon contributors.

Our search of the records produce 450 high-level oil and gas men, who contributed from $100 to $1 million to the Nixon campaign. Of these, 87 were members of the institute or the council (or both).

Major oil company contributors, ranging from Exxon to Signal, coughed up a staggering $4 million for Nixon. The other $2 million came from an assortment of oil and gas figures.

Some contributions were made before, some after, the new reporting requirement lifted the curtain a little on April 7, 1972. Some were never reported at all until they were flushed out by the Watergate investigation.

Exxon connection

Consider the Exxon-Nixon connection, for example. The company's major stockholders, directors and officers laid out $442,000 for the President's re-election. Exxon's man in Greece, Tom Pappas, kicked in more than $100,000.

The sacrifice was quickly recouped. Exxon squeezed out a $1.6 billion profit for its first three quarters in 1973, an increase of 59 per cent over 1972.

Gulf Oil's contributors gave $1,169,400, if Gulf heir and banker Richard Scaife's $1 million is counted. The Gulf gift included an illegal corporate contribution of $100,000, which was laundered through a subsidiary in the Bahamas.

The President wasn't the only beneficiary of Gulf's largess. Another $15,000 and $10,000, respectively, were pumped into the abortive presidential campaigns of Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., and Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

Gulf did well

Gulf got a better return than Exxon, with a 60 per cent increase over 1972 for the first three quarters of 1973.

Two other oil companies, Ashland and Phillips, pleaded guilty to slipping the Nixon campaign illegal contributions of $100,000 apiece. The Ashland payment, all in $100 bills, was routed through an oil-drilling subsidiary in Africa.

All told, we were able to find a record of $101,000 from Ashland executives and $118,000 from Phillips officials. The figures for a few other oil companies: Amerada Hess, $268,500; Standard of California, $90,000; Sun Oil, $145,000.

Occidental's Armand Hammer, who got U.S. encouragement in negotiating a multibillion dollar deal with Russia for the development of natural gas, donated $48,000 to the Nixon campaign.

Shaheen's refinery

John Shaheen, a former Nixon law client, contributed, $104,000. His company, Shaheen Natural Resources, got U.S. approval in building a huge refinery in Canada. He recently chartered the Queen Elizabeth II to haul his friends, including government officials, to the refinery's inauguration.

Tenneco, a giant gas transmission empire, has profited handsomely from recent actions by the Federal Power Commission and other government agencies. We have counted more than 50 big Nixon contributors among Tenneco bosses.

Belco Petroleum's chairman Arthur Belfer gave $12,000 to the campaign; a few months later, he won a favorable FPC decision. The FPC, of course, is stacked with industry yes-men. Two of the four commissioners came out of the industry; the other two usually vote with the oil and gas interests.

The links between campaign contributions and government benefits, of course, aren't easy to pinpoint. But as the Washington gadfly, I. F. Stone, suggested wryly: "It would shake investor faith in American capitalism if it turned out that so many of our biggest corporations indulgently gave away all that quid without some quo."

PAUL HARVEY

Was Agnew 'framed' by system?

Sen. Barry Goldwater said former Vice President Agnew has been "framed."

Agnew told friends in effect the same thing: that the heirs to his Maryland office tried to bargain themselves out of trouble with threats to drag him in. They failed to make a deal so they dragged him in.

The allegations against Agnew have raised a legitimate question: Do all politicians accept payola? And is it so different if the "gift" is in cash?

Illinois' distinguished war hero, jurist and former governor, Otto Kerner, is headed for prison because he bought and sold race track stock while he was governor.

True, he profited on the transaction. True, he was in position to do favors to race track operators.

True, some of his executive decisions did favor race track operators.

But if it's all right for a politician to accept a cigar and it's not all right for him to accept race track stock at a bargain price, where does the acceptance of a gift stop being a "courtesy" and start being a "crime?"

I don't know. I do know that in 21 suburbs of Chicago the local mayor is also the local liquor commissioner. In 21 separate suburbs! Some make more money as liquor commissioner than as mayor; some of them five or six times more!

And 17 of them also receive other salaries from other nonmunicipal jobs. Under state law the practice is allowable. Reared in such a system, is it any wonder that a city or state official finds himself on the "payroll" of contractors doing business with the city or state?

If the liquor people can pay him, why can't the construction people? When Southern governors went home from this year's Conference of Southern Governors in Point Clear, Ala., each took with him gifts worth more than $1,000.

It's nothing new. Businesses in any state donate gifts to encourage such conventions to come back, to maintain what they call "friendly relations" with neighboring governors.

Is that so different from what Maryland contractors are accused of doing? They, we're told, delivered cash gifts to maintain "friendly relations" with the governor with whom they did business.

When those Southern governors met last year in South Carolina, each went home with a golf cart worth $2,000 plus a lot of other things. And each governor is housed, fed and watered lavishly — free.

Until somebody can define the difference between a courtesy and a crime, the singular prosecution of the former Vice President does appear more like persecution.

I'm not saying this in defense of Mr. Agnew but, rather, as an explanation of a system which he certainly did not invent.

Gossip for today

Authors may come and authors may go but "Main Street" goes on forever. So if you think that Sinclair Lewis touched all the bases in his "Main Street—George F. Babbitt" descriptions of small town America, you're giving that noted author a bit too much credit. For even in his wildest imaginings Mr. Lewis never envisioned a happening to equal what took place in Claremont recently. — In a way it is too bad! For had he lived long enough to read a Progress-Bulletin news item reporting that event, he would undoubtedly have added a whole new chapter to his somewhat pointed remarks on that great American institution the service club. The newspaper report stated:

"Belly dancing will provide a change of pace in the programming for the Kiwanis Club of Claremont."

INSIDE REPORT

Arabs find how vulnerable West is

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

KUWAIT — The shameful shortsightedness of the Nixon administration in ignoring the power of Arab oil as a weapon in the Arab-Israeli 25-year war is painfully evident here where some of the world's purest crude is produced at a cost of a mere six cents a barrel from ground to tanker.

"You must face a cold fact," a leader in Kuwait's national assembly told us in the cloakroom of the modern parliament building. "The longer the war goes on between our Arab friends and the Israelis, the better it is economically for us."

Conceding that this is "a tragic way to look at it," the parliamentary leader insisted, nevertheless, that it is the accurate way.

The reason: with the price of oil soaring (the posted price here is about $5 today, up from $2.88 on Oct. 6, the day the war started), Kuwait wants to reduce its production of oil far below the maximum. It cannot spend the dollar income.

Yet, U.S. politicians and some high-level Nixon administration officials who ought to know better are now accusing the oil states of "blackmail" because they won't continue feeding oil to the West while Israel occupies substantial Arab territories in defiance of repeated Western pledges to restore most of the old borders.

Extending the oil squeeze

Far worse, veiled hints of U.S. counteraction against the Arabs can have only one result: to harden the Arabs, thereby extending the oil squeeze. The fact is that the steady growth of oil production in the Arab states the past few years has served Western and U.S. ends more than it has economically benefited the oil states. The present squeeze, imposed by the political requirements of the Arab-Israeli war, is proving that point every day.

Only three years ago, the two big oil companies that operate the immensely valuable fields in tiny Kuwait — British Petroleum and Shell — were pushing the government to increase the rate of production as high as 6 million barrels a day. That would have made Kuwait second only to Saudi Arabia as a producer of crude — larger even than Iran.

Such a drastic increase in production would have been fine for BP, Shell and its Western customers but potentially disastrous for the future of Kuwait. Specialists here estimate that even a 3-million-barrel-a-day production rate would exhaust proven oil reserves in Kuwait in about 40 years. Then what?

"We shudder to think of the time when our oil runs out," one high-level government planner told us. "That's all we have. We must use it sparingly and wisely to survive as a nation."

Reduced production inevitable

In short, reduced future production of Kuwait's rich crude was always inevitable, and so were eventual cutbacks of the infinitely richer reserves in Saudi Arabia. In Kuwait, one oil official told us, the proper production rate may be one million barrels a day — far less than the 3-million rate when the Oct. 6 war started or the 6-million rate the Western companies were aiming for.

In Saudi Arabia, King Faisal had given private assurances that he would probably meet the high-pressure demand of the U.S. and gradually escalate his production to around 20 million barrels a day by 1980 — almost three times the rate before the Oct. 6 war. But such assurances contradicted harsh economic facts: the Saudis could not possibly spend the tens of billions of dollars in annual income resulting from such a production rate, which, as in Kuwait, would hasten the day when oil, its only economic asset, would disappear.

Both countries want only enough oil income to finance long-range investment in petrochemicals and to train technicians to surmount centuries of primitive technologies and economies.

It is senseless for American officials to scream "blackmail" because the Arab oil states finally, after years of being ignored, are using their only lever of national power to force Middle East settlement to their liking.

It is just as senseless as it was for the Nixon administration to ignore the reality of Arab oil power since the 1967 war, when the Arabs first threatened to use it to obtain Israeli withdrawal from Arab territory. Now that the Arabs have found how vulnerable the West really is, the comfortable past when oil flowed to suit the West's demands may never return.

CENTURY OF LIVING

Mrs. Marie Piccone, who will celebrate her 100th birthday on Tuesday, looks over one of the gifts from her family, which gathered to mark the event Saturday at guest home.

Montclair woman 100 years old

P-B Staff Writer
MONTCLAIR — On Tuesday, Marie Piccone will get out of bed at 5 a.m., as she always has, do 100 deep-knee bends, like she always does, and take a long walk before breakfast, as usual. Despite all that, it won't be a typical day, because it will be her birthday—her 100th birthday. "I'm very happy I'm here today," exclaimed the bright-eyed Montclair resident. Born Dec. 4, 1873, in Rome, Italy, she has been a resident of California since 1926 and a resident of the United States since 1905, when Theodore Roosevelt was President. She says she has two great loves in her life—her family and her country. "I love this country. I'm glad I raised my five children here," she said. Although her birthday is Tuesday, her children, and her grandchildren, and her great-grandchildren, and her great-great-grandchildren, gathered Saturday to celebrate the event. She explains that she is enjoying it all, but feels the children are getting a bigger kick out of it than anyone. "I was born a happy woman and I'll die a happy woman. I'm happy every-day," she said. At 5 feet 2 and 106 pounds (she's gained seven pounds since she was 19),

Mrs. Piccone enjoys gardening, sewing and her walks near her beloved Montclair Guest Home, where she has resided for the past year. "I love it here," she said. Since she is the oldest resident at the home, she has nicknamed herself "Top Cat" and enjoys lending a helping hand to the "old" people. Her theories on living a century? "You have to work at it. And don't drink too much booze," she said.

CYA official to retire; on job 33 years

CHINO — Lyle Egan, deputy director for rehabilitation services of the California Youth Authority and former superintendent of the Youth Training School here, will retire Jan. 2, ending a 33-year career with the CYA and Department of Corrections. Egan will be replaced by C. A. Terhune, now superintendent of the CYA's Preston School of Industry, according to an announcement by Allen F. Breed, director of the youth authority. Egan entered the state service with the Division of Highways in 1939 and moved to the Department of Corrections in 1940, serving both in institutions and as a parole officer. He came to the CYA in 1950 as assistant superintendent at Preston. He later served as superintendent at the Fred C. Nelles School at Whittier and the youth Training School at Chino before being named chief of rehabilitation services for Southern California in 1968. He moved up to his present position as deputy director in 1972.

Speed limits being hiked on major Ontario streets

ONTARIO — Speed limits on Holt Boulevard between Imperial and Benson avenues have been increased 10 to 15 miles per hour and plans are being made to increase speed limits on the city's other major streets, announced the Ontario Police Department. Sgt. John Powers of the Ontario Police Department's traffic bureau said the speed limit on Holt Boulevard between Imperial Avenue on the East to Campus Avenue have been increased from 25 to 40 and the speed limit from Imperial Avenue east to the city limits from 40 to 50 miles per hour. On Holt Boulevard from Campus Avenue to Vine Avenue the speeds have been increased from 25 to 30 and from Vine Avenue to Mountain Avenue the speed has increased from 25 to 40 miles per hour. The speed limit from Mountain Avenue to Benson Avenue on Holt Boulevard has been increased from 35 to 45 miles per hour. Powers said the speed limits were increased after a study was made of the traffic flow and new safety features on the major city streets. Powers said other speed limits in the city on Vineyard Avenue, San Antonio Avenue, Sixth Street and Fourth Street also may be increased soon. He indicated that with the new speed limits, radar checks on the highways would be more accurate and the new speed limits "will be strictly enforced."

Receives degree

UPLAND — Mario A. Luque III of 285 N. Vallejo Way is among 47 students who received their bachelor of arts degree from Cal State San Bernardino at the conclusion of the summer session. Luque received his degree in Spanish.

Lumber yard sign carries message... life of our times laced with humor

UPLAND—A sign, although basically a medium for advertising, can also become an instrument for much-needed humor today. A case in point is here on Euclid Avenue at the Upland Lumber Co., where a huge sign announcing the location of the lumber yard shares top billing with humorous, applicable slogans of life in present times. It's possible, however, the slogans attract more attention although they occupy a much smaller part of the overall sign. "The response has been great," says Harland Horak, the company owner, who says he has been using various messages on the sign since late 1961. Horak gets most of his slogans out of "different publications," but he also uses any sent to him from people in the area and from across the country. Not too long ago, he said, he used a message sent in by a couple in Florida who saw his sign while visiting relatives here. "If the slogans are applicable to the times, we use them," Horak said. "But we try to avoid anything like what's out there now."

He was referring to the message which read, "We were in better shape when we had more whittlers and less chiselers." "It was not meant as an inference to the present political climate," Horak said. "It is more in keeping with the idea that we have gotten away from the old-time way of doing things—when we were a little slower and didn't move as fast." The idea of using social slogans was that of a former employee. Before that, the message board was used to inform people of progress on the construction of the present building, which is the third the company has had since its inception in 1905. Usually, the messages are changed once a week. "Actually, we do it whenever we get around to it, but we try to change every week," Horak said. For the future, Horak already has enough slogans to last through the middle of next year. Among those which will be on display soon are: "What most people want for Christmas is two weeks more to prepare for it." "Bored and restless — try writing your Zip Code in Roman numerals." "The perfect gift for the person who has everything—a burglar alarm."

Dance to raise funds for Ayala

ONTARIO — San Bernardino County Supervisor Ruben Ayala, a candidate for the 20th Senate District seat, will be honored at a dance here Friday to help raise money for his campaign. The event will be held at the El Carousal from 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. Tickets are $3.50, and can only be purchased at the door the night of the dance. Music will be provided by Los Tiburones.

ALTA LOMA — Seventeen Pomona Valley area residents will be among the 24 graduates of Chaffey College's vocational nursing program Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the little theater. The graduates are: Gloria De Vries of Chino, Cynthia Paulsen of Montclair, Margot Acosta, Judy Guilford, Jeanette Jones, Madeline Maiorano, Mary Mendoza, Debra Morris, Cheri Reaves, Syble Roberts, Jody Moss, Gail Sateri, Barbara Spencer, Virginia Taylor and Irva Waggoner, all of Ontario; and Cynthia Denne and Margaret Howell, both of Upland.

SIGN OF THE TIMES?

No, this message is "not an inference to the present political climate," says Harland Horak, owner of the Upland Lumber Co. Instead, it was meant as a social comment on today's so-called "rat race," which always seems to find people in a hurry. Horak has been using similar slogans on the sign since 1964.

BEARS' BIG MOMENT

About the only thing Chicago Bears could cheer about Sunday was this interception by Craig Clemons on pass intended for Rams' Harold Jackson (29). Rams won, 26-0, to win NFC West championship.

Fall to Pistons, 114-108

Lakers lack needed spark

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

INGLEWOOD — The Lakers played without Happy Hairston, Bill Bridges, and poise, determination and skill Sunday night.

The result was a 114-108 loss to the Detroit Pistons which was not nearly as close as the score might indicate.

Trailing only by six points 56-50 Bill Sharman's team played the worst quarter before home fans of any team since Sharman took over the reins.

The only thing that prevented it from being the worst quarter of basketball ever played by a Sharman-coached Laker team was the fact that Sharman himself said the first quarter of Saturday night's loss at Portland was the worst.

In the horrendous third period the Lakers committed 13 turnovers in 12 minutes of play took only 17 shots (and made nine) and made only one of four free throws for a total of just 19 points. Meanwhile the Pistons were hitting on 15 of 31 shots and turning the ball over just five times while scoring 30 points.

A disgusted Sharman kept the press waiting 11 minutes while holding a post-game post mortem with, or maybe on, his players.

"We were just flat-footed," a frowning Sharman sighed as he greeted the writers in the locker room with the Laker players sitting around in various stages of dejection.

It might be added here that the Laker coach usually talks to the press in the hallway outside the dressing room or in another room specifically used for press conferences away and out of earshot from the players.

"We weren't running we weren't rebounding we couldn't pass we didn't get back on defense and we weren't going after loose balls," the Laker coach continued.

"I can accept defeat," he said glumly "but it hurts when we get outthrusted. We'll have a team meeting (today) and do a little soul searching . . . let the players see what they can come up with . . . we've got to try something . . . a coach can only point out things so often and say so much . . . it doesn't do any good to keep repeating things over and over and over."

Sharman said he thought the trouble all started with rebounding. "I don't like to make excuses," he said "but we were without Happy and Bill and El-Far (Smith) had an upset stomach and I had to take him out for awhile in the second quarter."

There's no excuse for the way we played, but the lack of rebounding hurt

Former SC star put on waivers

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association placed guard Dennis Layton on waivers Sunday.

us. You've got to start from rebounding. When you're not moving quick, you're not thinking quick," he concluded.

The Laker coach then looked at the official stat sheet which showed the Lakers outrebounding the visitors 10-9 in the horrible third quarter and 61-58 in the whole game.

Sharman could only shake his head in disbelief.

He was also surprised to see that Jerry West took only three shots in the entire second half and made only one. West wound up with 18 points on seven of 16 field goal attempts and all four of his free throws.

Gail Goodrich was high scorer with 29 points, but threw the ball away several times and did not play his best defensive game.

The best performance of the night was by the reserves led by Pat Riley. With 3:16 left in the game and the Pistons ahead 106-90, the second string pulled the Lakers to within four points 110-106 with 19 seconds left.

Riley scored 13 of his 19 points in the period.

Unfortunately only the press, the Forum employees and the players' wives and children witnessed the last-minute heroics.

Everyone else had gone home earlier . . . probably the smell had gotten to them.

Maryland shows way UCLA can be defeated

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Maybe there's going to be a college basketball season after all.

Fifth-ranked Maryland proved that UCLA can be beaten Saturday night although the Terrapins fell one point short of doing it.

The Atlantic Coast Conference Terps showed they were capable of playing in the same ball park with the mighty Bruins—in this case, Pauley Pavilion—in losing a 65-64 thriller.

"We got a lesson without losing," said UCLA coach John Wooden.

"I told my team they played as well defensively as any team I ever coached," Lefty Driesell, the colorful Maryland mentor, sighed. "I don't feel bad. I think my boys know now they can play with any team in the country."

"Anytime your team plays this well against the greatest team in college basketball history, you've got to be proud."

The seven-time national champion Bruins won on a night when they shot only 33.8 per cent from the floor—25 of 74. Of course, Maryland's defense had something to do with that.

Bill Walton, college basketball's Player of the Year the past two seasons, was outscored by the Terps' Len Elmore 19-18 but pulled down 27 rebounds and blocked 8 shots.

Maryland had a chance to win the game in the last 20 seconds but junior forward Dave Meyers poked the ball away from the Terps' John Lucas to Tommy Curtis.

So UCLA's NCAA record victory streak is 77 games but a third straight 30-0 season by the Bruins would appear to be no sure thing.

They're at home next Saturday night against Southern Methodist and then it's No. 2-rated North Carolina State at St. Louis Dec. 15.

Rams really did not have to try very hard

CHICAGO (UPI) — Just a normal game was enough to put the Los Angeles Rams on the first rung of the ladder leading to pro football's Super Bowl.

The Rams used plain basic football Sunday to blank the Chicago Bears 26-0 for their fourth straight win. As a dividend, the victory clinched the championship of the National Football Conference's Western Division, the first crown for the Rams since 1969.

"It was execution," Coach Chuck Knox said after the game, which extended the Bears' losing streak to four. "We didn't pick on anyone. It was our game plan. We didn't do anything abnormal."

But the Rams crunched out 296 yards on the ground, with Lawrence McCutcheon turning in 152 yards on 24 carries, and John Hadl, though he had one pass intercepted, completing 8 of 21 for 90 yards.

"The execution was great," Hadl said. "That makes things a hell of a lot easier. The championship is a tribute to Chuck Knox and the coaching staff. They've done a tremendous job."

Knox wouldn't declare that the Rams' defense, which held the Bears to 100 yards total, played its best game. "We didn't change anything," he said. "We stuck to our basic game plan. Of course we knew that with (Gary) Huff in there, they don't run the option as much."

Huff, a rookie, got his first start because Bobby Douglass was suffering from a hyperextension of his left knee, but the youngster never was in position to do much. The Bears got across midfield only once, on a pass to George Farmer, which he fumbled on the Rams 46 and Los Angeles recovered.

The Rams got field goals of 30, 16, 39 and 26 yards from David Ray and touchdown from Jim Bertelsen on a 3-yard run and Les Josephson on a 9-yard run.

The Bears got nothing, and Coach Abe Giron said, "We couldn't get field position. We couldn't move the ball at them. I don't think their offense was outstanding, but their defense gave us a lot of different looks. We made the big mistakes."

The Rams won the division title because they have a better intra division record than Atlanta, which could tie Los Angeles in the won-lost columns, should the Rams lose their remaining two games.

"I think they've got a good chance to take it all," Giron said. "Offensively Hadl is the whole team. He took away the passing and started hitting us with the run."

"We didn't know we'd won it until they announced the score of the Atlanta game late in the game," Knox said. "Everyone's really elated and happy. 'We're going to continue to do what we've done all year. We're going to talk and think about our next opponent. We're not going to look ahead. We've got to continue to grow and mature.'"

Eight valley teams ready for tourney

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

If this year's Upland-Montclair High School Basketball Tournament is anything like last year's, it'll be one you don't want to miss.

Last year when the final day came around, Garey and Ganesha had built up enough momentum that the tourney ended in a roaring success.

Before a packed house at Montclair High, Garey defeated the Giants in the first of their three meetings of the year, 82-63. The Vikings went on to win their other two confrontations to win the San Antonio League title.

The same thing could happen again this year.

The defending tournament champion Vikings lost almost everybody to graduation this season, but they are still considered a threat to win their second consecutive U-M championship.

The Vikings, Giants and the 14 teams in the tourney begin play Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 p.m. at both the Montclair and Upland gymnasiums.

Garey opens the first round against Charter Oak at 4:45 p.m. in the Upland gym, while Ganesha battles Duarte in the first round at Montclair High. The Giants' tipoff is set for 3:15 p.m.

Ganesha and Azusa will be coming into the tourney as the top-seeded teams, but will be playing in separate locations.

Azusa will open against Pomona at 3:15 p.m. at Upland.

Ganesha, Pomona and co-host Montclair already opened their 1973-74 seasons last Saturday night, so they may have a slight edge — having already faced some opposition.

Montclair was the only one of the three to come up with a weekend win, nipping Alta Loma, 58-56, while Ganesha dropped a 69-66 decision to North of Riverside and Pomona fell to Eisenhower, 59-55.

Garey, on the other hand, will make its first appearance of the season in the tournament.

"I feel that we are already ahead of last year's team fundamentally," stated second-year Garey head coach Mike Wells. "The kids are working hard on knowing each other's moves. We are very young, but I feel we can get it together."

Only one of Garey's starters saw action as a varsity player last year, so inexperience should also play a factor.

The Vikings will be paced by Los Angeles transfer Dave Larry (6-5, 210) who played at Roosevelt High last year. Starting at center will be 6-foot-8, 190 pound John Gussenhoven.

Ganesha returns an all-tournament team player in center Cleve Porter (6-5, 185). Last year in the tourney, Por-

NFL races getting very complicated

By United Press International

It doesn't pay to look at the National Football League standings unless you have a degree in higher mathematics. That's how complicated they've gotten.

With only two weeks left in the regular season, only three division titles have been settled and in the wild American Conference, seven teams are fighting for three remaining playoff slots.

The Cincinnati Bengals and the Cleveland Browns took big steps toward a slam-bang finish Sunday when they pulled off major surprises. The Bengals crushed powerful Minnesota 27-0 and the Browns rallied for two touchdowns in the final six minutes to tie Kansas City 20-20.

With Dallas whipping Denver 22-10, Oakland downing Houston 17-6 and Buffalo upending Atlanta 17-6, the American race shapes up this way:

Miami has won the East and that's the only sure thing. In the Central, Pittsburgh which faces Miami tonight, holds a half-game lead over Cincinnati and Cleveland. A Steeler loss tonight would set up a three-way tie for first with the Bengals and Browns facing each other next week. Buffalo, second in the East, still is alive in the

Trojans strong in big opener

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bob Boyd promised his basketball team was going to be better this season and he was as good as his word.

In its season opener at home Saturday night, University of Southern California took apart Western Athletic Conference favorite Arizona 100-76.

"I think it's one of Boyd's better teams and they should get better," said Wildcats' coach Fred Snowden.

Gus Williams, a 6-2 junior guard from Mt. Vernon, N.Y., paced the Trojans' upset victory over the 19th-ranked Wildcats with a career high 29 points.

"That's as good as Williams has ever played," said Boyd. "But he's going to have better nights. The thing I liked best was his defense. He's our most talented player."

(Please turn to B-4, Col. 3)

Dodgers just might get rid of Willie Davis

HOUSTON (UPI) — It's enough to make a manager drool.

An outfield of Jimmy Wynn, Billy Williams and Willie Davis, and they're all available.

For the right price, of course.

All three could have new addresses next summer, with Wynn the most likely of the trio to be wearing a different uniform.

It's no secret the New York Mets, who made it into the World Series despite a team batting average of .246, are coveting a power-hitting, right-handed batter, preferably one who can play center field. Wynn would fit the bill, nicely, and he could be a Met by the end of the week-long winter baseball meetings which begin here today.

The Mets will take Wynn only because they have no chance of getting young Cesar Cedeño from the Astros. Cedeño, who will be 23 in February, is nine years younger than Wynn and batted .320 last season, 100 points higher than his older teammate.

But the Mets can't be faulted for not asking.

"Any chance of getting Cedeño?" inquired Bob Scheffing, the Mets' general manager.

"No," was the simple answer offered by Houston GM Spec Richardson.

"What about Doug Rader?" Scheffing asked, eyeing the Astros' veteran third baseman.

"Same answer," said Richardson.

So, the Mets may settle for Wynn in exchange for Southpaw pitcher George Stone who had his best season ever in 1972, posting a 12-3 record and leading the National League in winning percentage with a mark of .800. Another player probably will be thrown in with Stone because the Astros keep asking.

Despite his .220 batting average last season, Wynn did hit 20 homers and drive in 55 runs. His 20 homers were only three less than John Milner who led the Mets in that department and would have looked pretty good for a team which connected for only a total of 85, second lowest in the NL.

The Chicago Cubs, who already have unloaded pitcher Ferguson Jenkins and second baseman Glenn Beckert, might be ready to shed another veteran player in Williams as part of their current youth movement. The 35-year-old Williams led the NL in hitting in 1972 with a .333 mark but dipped to .288 last season.

"I'd say there are about 23 clubs interested in him (Williams)," said a Cubs' spokesman. "We never said we want to trade him but he's not an untouchable and we'll listen to all offers."

The most interesting of the offers are coming from the world champion Oakland A's who might be able to satisfy the Cubs' current quest for young pitchers. One of the hurlers mentioned is Lefty Dave Hamilton but the Cubs have already indicated they'd want more than just Hamilton before they'd part with Williams.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, disappointed over their second place finish behind Cincinnati in the NL west, have also shown an interest in Williams and might be willing to part with Davis. Davis, like Williams a 13-year veteran, batted .285 last season.

The major league draft is the first item of scheduled business at the meetings today and probably the biggest name among those players available for $25,000 is former 30-game winner Danny McLain. Only three years ago, McLain was the key figure in an eight player trade between the Detroit Tigers and Washington Senators.

It has been downhill ever since for McLain, who will be 30 years old next March, and it's highly unlikely any major league club is willing to invest even $25,000 in his future.

Newcombe, Laver lead Aussies, 5-0

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The problem anyone would have is finding two people who can beat Rod Laver and John Newcombe when they have days like these.

Thus did Wayne Reid, president of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association sum up the 5-0 triumph of his forces over the United States in the Davis Cup final round which concluded here Sunday.

Newcombe and Laver played brilliant tennis from start to finish, but it was their explosive start that set up the final 5-0 count.

Newcombe, the Forest Hills champion, pointed out that in his opening singles victory over Stan Smith in Friday's exhausting five-set match, "could have gone either way. The breaks came our way, and Stan, with all the pressure on him, had to be nervous."

The 29-year old Aussie had all but blown America's top player into Lake Erie in the first set, but then had to pull it all out after Smith had taken the lead with a break in the final set.

For Laver, it had been similarly harrowing. Tom Gorman had him down, two sets to one, and then Rod had suddenly turned the clock back four years and more to the magnificent form that had made him the only two-time Grand Slam winner in 1969.

"Tom played extremely well but I was in great condition and knew if I could stay with him, Tom would tire. I've been around a while, you know," the 35-year old Laver said.

Instead of a 2-0 deficit after opening day, the Aussies agreed it could have been 1-1 or even 2-0 for the States, but the stampede was on. Aussie captain Neale Fraser elected to go for broke by throwing John and Rod—a righty and a lefty—against Smith and Erik Van Dillen in the doubles on Saturday for the U.S. The result was total disaster as the wily Aussies picked on the 22-year-old Van Dillen throughout in a one hour, six-minute debacle that clinched the series.

The meaningless Sunday singles saw Newcombe, cementing his claim to world top ranking, devour Gorman 6-2, 6-1, 6-3, and Laver downed a disconsolate Smith 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2.

And just how long will the cup be gone?

Reid and Fraser has no illusions. Reid said, "you have to look at (Arthur) Ashe, (Jimmy) Connors, people like this."

Fraser looking back to the marathon eight-hour duels of Friday in the opening singles, said "we both know how tight it was. We're looking forward to next year but not with overwhelming confidence."

There was not total jubilation on the part of the Australians for all of them were disturbed by the fact that in going for America's throat, it had been necessary for them to bypass the 39-year old little idol of Down Under Tennis, Ken Rosewall. Rosewall had travelled 10,000 miles to play once again after 17 years for his country, and wound up a spectator.

One thing is certain about next year's final round. Should Cup captain Dennis Ralston, Stan Smith and whoever else America can bring to the final round in December in Australia, the surroundings and excitement will be far greater there than they were here.

Only an announced 14,300 turned out for the three sessions in decrepit Public Hall although many more tickets have been sold and the money was in the till.

In 1954 in Sydney Australia on a single day, the attendance was over 27,000.

By United Press International
Maybe it's time to start calling the Army-Navy game the Navy-Army game.

Winless Army finished the worst season in the history of the academy Saturday when it was clobbered by Navy 51-0.

It was one thing to lose to the Notre Dames and the Penn States by lopsided scores but it was the ultimate embarrassment for Army to lose to Navy by that kind of a score.

It was the worst beating ever by either of the two service academies in the 74-year history of the rivalry.

Two bad Army kicks and a pair of interceptions helped Navy score 31 second period points. Cleveland Cooper, the Middles' all-time leading rusher, wound up with three touchdowns while quarterback Al Glennie added two others with a 39-yard pass to Larry Van Loan and a five-yard scoring burst.

The real tipoff on the futility of the whole affair was the fact that so many empty seats watched the Cadets and the Midshipman march into Philadelphia's old JFK Stadium.

The attendance of 91,926 was the lowest since the game was moved to the 100,000-plus seat stadium at the end of World War II. This used to be one of the most prized tickets in sports but times have changed.

The ranked teams who were in action wound up their regular seasons with customary flourish. Top-ranked Alabama wrapped up its first national championship since 1961 with a 35-0 rout of arch-rival Auburn, which upset Bama last year but never really challenged the Tide this year.

Junior quarterback Gary Rutledge scored twice to pace Alabama to the triumph over Auburn, which will play in the Sun Bowl despite a 6-5 record.

Fourth-ranked Notre Dame wrapped up the first perfect regular season in the era of Ara Parseghian by blasting Miami of Fla. 44-0. The last Irish perfect season came in 1949 but that was in the era when Notre Dame didn't play in bowl games. The Irish will play Alabama in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Eve and must win that one to make it a complete perfect season.

Wayne Bullock scored two touchdowns on a two-yard burst in the first period and a one-yard plunge in the second period to pace Notre Dame.

Second-rated Oklahoma, which isn't eligible for a bowl game because it was put on probation for recruiting violations, clobbered Oklahoma State 45-18. The Sooners went unbeaten but had one tie—a 7-7 deadlock with Southern California—on their record this season.

Quarterback Steve Davis scored three touchdowns in the Oklahoma triumph. It was the first time Oklahoma has gone unbeaten since the Bud Wilkinson era in 1956.

Tangerine bowl bound Florida blasted Florida State 49-0 with Nat Moore scoring a pair of touchdowns. Florida State finished with a winless season.

In other games, Georgia wrapped up a Peach Bowl bid with a 10-3 victory over Georgia Tech, Gator Bowl bound Tennessee edged Vanderbilt 20-17 to wind up with an 8-3 season, Rice blanked Baylor 27-0 and Boston College smashed Holy Cross 42-21.

ton. Marv Hubbard ran two yards for a TD to put the game out of reach.

Gimpy-legged Sonny Jurgensen completed 11 consecutive passes and engineered two last period TD drives that carried Washington over the Giants. New York led 21-3 when Jurgensen relieved starter Bill Kilmer and set up Larry Brown's six-yard TD run before throwing a 16-yard pass to Brown for the go-ahead score.

"We made mistakes we can't make against Dallas," said Washington Coach George Allen. "That's going to be one of the playoff games as far as I'm concerned."

"Sonny can eat you up no matter what defense you throw at him," moaned Giants' Coach Alex Webster. "We tried every kind of defense but he reacts so well and reads them so well."

O.J. Simpson became the second leading ground gainer for a single season when he dashed for 136 yards to spark the Bills' upset of Atlanta. Jim Braxton had a pair of one-yard runs for the Buffalo TDs.

"We're a young team and it's all in front of us," said Simpson after the Bills revived their playoff hopes. "He now has 1,584 yards and needs 280 in his last two games to break Jim Brown's mark of 1,663 yards."

Elsewhere, Joe Namath threw 15 yards for one TD and set up the decisive field goal with a 63-yard pass as the Jets beat Baltimore and Steve Spurrier ran for two TDs and passed 28 yards for another to lead San Francisco over the Eagles.

Bill Munson's five-yard pass to Charley Sanders early in the fourth quarter lifted Detroit over the Cardinals and Jim Plunkett scored two TDs and passed for a third as New England made San Diego its third straight victim. Al Mathews returned an interception 58 yards for one score and Jim Carter took one back 42 for another as the Packers downed New Orleans.

upset by Texas Tech 82-76, 19th-ranked Arizona also suffered an upset, 100-76, at the hands of Southern California and 20th-ranked South Carolina dumped Toledo 74-54.

Texas Tech spoiled Jerry Tarkanian's official debut as Nevada-Las Vegas basketball coach as the Southwest Conference champions upset the Rebels before a capacity crowd of 6,207.

After losing their own opener by 20 points at Fresno State Friday night, the Red Raiders were decided underdogs against UNLV. But Tech fought back from a 13-point deficit with 15 minutes left and eventually outlasted the young Las Vegas team.

Olympian Bobby Jones fired in 21 points and blocked six shots to lead fourth-ranked North Carolina to its season-opening victory over Houston.

Aroused Cincinnati rode Lloyd Batts' 22-point barrage to its upset over error-plagued Louisville. The Bearcats roared to a 53-33 lead early in the second half and then relied on Dan Murphy's dribbling skills to keep the rallying Cardinals from getting too close. The Cardinals were guilty of 29 errors compared with only 12 for Cincinnati.

Cubs trade Bob Locker

HOUSTON (UPI) — Chicago and Oakland completed the first inter-league trade of the 1973 winter baseball meetings today when the Cubs sent reliever Bob Locker to the world champion A's in exchange for relief hurler Horacio Pina in a one-for-one swap.

The Cubs, swinging their third deal since the end of the season, acquired the 35-year-old Locker from the A's only last year and he went on to post a 10-6 record, appearing in 63 games during the 1973 campaign. It was revealed by a Cubs spokesman that Locker had reported to Chicago only on the condition that the Cubs would attempt to trade him back to a west coast club next season.

TODAY'S Women

Women to view Madonna collection

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Wheeler, residents of San Antonio Gardens, will present the Ebell Club program for its Friday afternoon tea meeting.

"Madonnas Around the World" will be featured at the 1:30 p.m. program. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler are both natives of Pomona Valley and Pomona College graduates.

Mr. Wheeler is a former mayor of Claremont.

The couple's quest for Madonna pictures has taken them around the world, including several trips to Europe and the Orient.

Members of the club will use their own yule decorations to accent the clubhouse parlors and auditorium during December.

Juniors will answer for Santa

Members of Pomona Junior Women's Club will answer letters to Santa Claus during the holiday season.

Parents should enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with the letter to Santa from their child.

The letters can be addressed simply to Santa Claus, North Pole, and deposited in any mailbox in the city of Pomona. Letter deadline is Dec. 11.

Mic-Mac Council to celebrate friendship

Mic-Mac Council 289, Degree of Pocahontas, will observe friendship night when the group meets at 8 p.m. Wednesday at 172 W. Monterey Ave.

Miss Evangeline French, chairman, will be in charge of the salad bar.

The council has scheduled its Christmas party Dec. 19 at 8 p.m. with Mrs. Ethel Shearer in charge of arrangements.

CHOSEN CAREFULLY — Mrs. Eugene DeYoung and Mrs. Lewis Liesch select Christmas ornaments to be used on tree decorating Red Hill Country Club for Assistance League Mistletoe Ball Thursday.

Mistletoe Ball set by Upland League

The traditional Mistletoe Ball, a benefit sponsored by Assistance League of Upland, is scheduled Dec. 6 at the Red Hill Country Club, according to Mrs. Dean Smothers, president.

Under the direction of Mrs. A. J. McCarthy, league members will open their homes to guests prior to the dinner dance. Hosting open houses are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene DeYoung, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harris, Dr. and Mrs. John Mortensen and Mr. and Mrs. John Taves.

Mrs. Mortensen, general chairman for the ball, announces that proceeds from the event will support the league's major philanthropic projects — Cucamonga Girls Club and the San Antonio Community Hospital Dental Center.

The girls club meets every Monday through Thursday afternoon in the Jerene Appleby Harnish wing of the League Center in Cucamonga. Approximately 90 girls from the third through eighth grades attend sessions staffed by league members under the direction of Mrs. Jinx Ellis and Mrs. Bruce Clafin, Girls Club chairman.

Just before Halloween, the girls decorated a pumpkin, made stuffed toys, mobiles, paper flowers and a quilt and delivered them to the Home of the Angels in Ontario. Club members also entertained the residents of the home.

The youngsters will sing Christmas carols in many

West End rest homes as Cucamonga Girls Club goes caroling on Dec. 20.

The San Antonio Community Hospital Dental Center is staffed by members of the Assistance League, under the direction of Mrs. Milton Bracey, and 27 local dentists who volunteer their services. In November, dental care was completed for 21 youngsters and care was started for another 30 children.

Last year, 300 children from the West End received needed dental care through the center. The community-wide volunteer effort brings dental care to needy youngsters and offers a dental health education program for all children in the area. Care is made available to children in families who are not on welfare, not covered by dental insurance, and in a low-income bracket which makes the cost of private dental care prohibitive.

The Mistletoe Ball dinner will be served at Red Hill Country Club at 8:30 p.m., followed by an evening of dancing to the music of Lou Dokken and his orchestra.

Completing plans for the nostalgic evening are Mrs. John Taves, ways and means chairman; Mrs. Richard Day, invitations; Mrs. John Horgan, decorations; Mrs. Lewis Liesch, reservations chairman; Mrs. Alan McCarthy, social chairman; and Mrs. Richard Pearson, responses.

Methodist Women set dinner

The United Methodist Women of the Trinity United Methodist Church will meet for a dinner program at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Florence Reeves will present "Creches Around the World" and display many of the creches she has either collected during her tours or created herself.

Devotions will be given by Mrs. Becky Schwarzer. Mrs. Lois Williams will conduct the business meeting. The board will convene at 5:45 p.m. in Wesley Parlor.

Chapter PR schedules yule party

Chapter PR of the PEO Sisterhood will meet Wednesday noon at the home of Mrs. John H. Burma, 114 Monterey Ave., Claremont.

Mrs. J.M. Layne, Mrs. Harold Berger, Mrs. Clark Hungerford and Mrs. Robert C. Mill will be assisting hostesses.

The program for the chapter's Christmas party is "Oh Tannenbaum" by Mrs. William F. Montgomery. Mrs. Robert Weingartner will preside over the business meeting.

Betrothals announced

Insley-Dell

An April 5 wedding is planned by Miss Martha Jane Insley and Kenneth James Dell.

The daughter of Mrs. Dortha E. Insley of Pomona, the bride-elect graduated from Montclair High School and Papac's Beauty College. She is employed at Towne Hair Fashions, Pomona.

The groom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence V. Dell of Upland. He is a 1970 graduate of Upland High School and attended Chaffey College two years.

Mr. Dell is employed by Western Metal Decorating, Cucamonga.

Pease-McKown

Miss Karen Pease and David Neil McKown will be married on Feb. 2.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Pease of Chino, the bride-elect is a senior at Chino High School and will graduate in January.

Mr. McKown, son of Mrs. Thelma McKown of Wheatland and the late Richard B. McKown, graduated from East Nicholas High School. He is employed at Harris Crane and Rigging, Pomona.

Schmidt-Smith

A Dec. 29 wedding is planned by Miss Vicki Lynn Schmidt and Gary D. Smith.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Schmidt of Montclair, the bride-elect graduated from Montclair High School and Chaffey College. She is employed by Dr. Lenard R. Troncale, Institute for Advanced Systems Studies, Cal Poly Pomona.

Mr. Smith, son of the John E. Smiths of Temple City, graduated from Arcadia High School in 1969. He will graduate from Azusa Pacific College in April.

Mr. Smith is an intern in the junior high department at Pomona First Baptist College.

Triple winner given permanent trophy

As a triple winner of the traveling trophy award, Dorothy Van Der Linde won a permanent trophy at the November meeting of Pomona Valley Writer's Club.

"Everything Your Kid Wanted to Know About Mother Goose" was the title of the final article. Earlier this year, Mrs. Van Der Linde won first place for her article entry at Mt. San Antonio College's Writers' Day contest. She has sold stories and articles to popular magazines.

In the poetry section, Pomona Valley Writers' Club awarded a traveling trophy to Lillian Johnson for her entry, "The Ballad of January 1st."

Officers selected for 1974 are Nancy Smith, president; Ethel Hodge, vice president; A. U. Tschoepe, recording secretary; Florence Swanson, corresponding secretary; Florence Lovgren, treasurer; and Delores Lowry, publicity.

William Roper offered hints on finding plots and characters for short stories at the meeting.

Members and friends of the club will meet Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at Griswold's Indian Hill Inn for a Christmas trophy dinner.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H or recommend it for their families. Preparation H ointment or suppositories.

Heat from cold: Huge deposits of natural gas have been discovered in places like Alaska, Northwest Canada and the Canadian Arctic Islands. We can bring some of it here in tankers. Some through a pipeline. And we've been involved in extensive Arctic research to find out the best way to build that pipeline without harming the environment.

Storage: We store gas in underground storage fields in the summer so you'll have enough for the winter.

Substitute gas from natural resources: Coal gasification is simply the reaction of coal with oxygen and hydrogen from steam in a suitable reactor. The result, a methane gas, is then purified to produce clean-burning substitute gas. Gas from coal. With all the properties of natural gas.

Gas from Indonesia: This project could bring up to one billion cubic feet per day of natural gas (in liquid form) to the West Coast of the United States.

LNG from Australia: In the Palm Valley field of Central Australia, there may be as much as 10 trillion cubic feet of natural gas. If the gas proves to be there, and the Australian and U.S. Governments approve, this supply could be converted to liquid form and shipped home via specially constructed tankers.

This country is facing an energy shortage. And it includes natural gas.

Does that mean the Gas Company is running out? Not exactly. But we'll have to go to the ends of the earth in order to keep those home fires burning.

In fact, in a few years, the gas that supplies the flame that supplies the heat that cooks your roast may come from Alaska. Or Indonesia. Or Australia. It'll be natural gas that we reduce to a liquid and ship home in tankers.

Or maybe it'll be substitute gas produced from coal.

Whichever, it's obviously going to cost more. But we think you'll agree that it's a lot better than no gas. Especially since it'll still be your most economical energy source. And one of the cleanest.

As far as your immediate needs are concerned, we'll be able to supply all our "firm" customers, such as homes and businesses. But until we have those new supplies coming in, we will have to interrupt deliveries more often to our industrial customers who are equipped to switch to other fuels whenever "firm" customers' needs require.
